AIRLINE ROUTE TO BE REALITY
IN SHORT TIME*President Hendrick Talks of
New Highway Project*Would Afford Shorter and Direct
Roadway With Cincinnati
Northern and Lookout
Southern Terminus

(Chattanooga Times)

Completion of the Cincinnati-Lookout Mountain Airline highway within two years should not be difficult with reasonable co-operation of the state highway department, which the promoters are confident of enjoying, was the prediction of President C. E. Hendrick, of Harriman, who was in the city recently.

Mr. Hendrick was here primarily on business in interest of the highway, but it is understood that he talked with a few people whom he encountered relative to his ambition to become postmaster of Harriman. It will be recalled by many familiar with Harriman and acquainted with this well-known Tennessean, that he served his city as mayor for six consecutive terms.

Meeting by chance at the Chattanooga Automobile club recently, President J. Lon Foust, of that organization, and President Hendrick had a short chat about the airline highway. Mr. Foust expressed himself as much interested in the highway and anxious to lend any assistance possible to promote the services of the club in getting up a meeting if one was deemed helpful at any time at some point on the airline route.

Interest that Chattanooga should feel in the comparatively new road project is easily seen from the name, which shows that with Cincinnati as the northern terminus Lookout mountain and this city jointly are the southern terminus. The route, following very closely the Cincinnati Southern railroad, owned by the city of Cincinnati and which has meant so much to the development of the Dyamo of Dixie, is almost a direct line between the two points. Easily it will rank with the straightest highways of national or interstate in this country.

Organized Aug. 26th, last year, the airline association has splendid prospects of early success. There are several factors pointing to the probability of speedy and complete success, including the interest all along the road, existing good roads over much of the course, money in sight for new work, and the fact that it is identical with the Dixie highway as far north as Harriman and therefore provided for to that extent.

The airline route will be a considerably shorter channel for tourist travel between the central states and Chattanooga than either the eastern or western division of the Dixie highway system. It will not only afford a direct, splendid road to Cincinnati and all points tributary thereto, but will serve as a compromise route, assuming that it is finished first, in case anything happens to delay completion of any other road or minimize its use.

In Roane county, President Hendrick explained, there is a good road now from Harriman to Rockwood, with money actually in bank to make it of more permanent character, according to government specifications. Morgan county sold on March 18th, bonds in the sum of $200,000, which will provide a good road through to the Scott county line. From Glen Mary to Isham, in Scott, the road is guaranteed by the fund of $300,000 that has been in bank for three years; and the state highway commission has promised to let a contract for the work this summer.

According to Mr. Hendrick, most of the roads embraced by the airline route in Kentucky are now in good shape, but the counties through which they pass are not satisfied and will make substantial improvements. McCreary county, Kentucky, has twenty-seven miles of the road and assessments on property there are being arranged to take care of the new work. Pulaski county has fourteen miles, six and a half of which are being graded now. No undue delay in this county is feared. From that county into Cincinnati the road is now splendid, either macadam or rock asphalt.

The Chattanooga Automobile club has adopted the following resolution: Whereas, the people of Scott county and Morgan counties have issued bonds in the sum of $500,000 for the purpose of aiding in the construction of the Cincinnati Lookout Mountain

ATTEND ICE
MEETING*W. R. Bastin Returns From
Meeting of Ice Dealers
Association Imbued
With New Ideas

Mr. W. Ross Bastin represented Bastin Brothers at the recent convention of Ice Dealers at Louisville and comes back imbued with many good ideas, which he proposes to let out to the public and their patrons during the coming season. One of the chief lessons which impressed him most favorably, was a systematic amount of judicious advertising, telling the patrons of Lancaster and Garrard county the services Bastin Brothers propose to give them during the coming season. The importance of advertising was brought out at its recent meeting at Louisville and as a result the local ice man makes his initial bow to the public through the columns of the press, telling how his industry is organized for better serving the public. Mr. Bastin tells us he has contracted with the Richmond Ice Company to furnish him with all the ice necessary for the consuming public in this immediate vicinity and that he proposes to give full weight and the best service that can possibly be had.

We are glad indeed to know that we are to be supplied with plenty of ice during the coming season, for there has been in the past quite a dearth of this necessary commodity, which we hope will be overcome during the hot season and the long summer days of the future.

New Bakery Opened At Kengarian Hotel

The public will be pleased to learn that a Bakery has been reopened at the Kengarian Hotel by Mr. C. H. Meier, who with Mrs. Meier, moved into Lancaster last Wednesday and have taken rooms at the hotel. Mr. Meier is a baker of many years experience and the "proof of his pudding is in the eating thereof." He proposes to cater to the housewives of this vicinity and prove to them that he can furnish them cakes, pies, rolls, fresh bread, etc., every day, cheaper than it can be cooked in their own homes.

This bakery has been one of Lancaster's needs for many months and we feel and think that it will be patronized by her citizens, thereby showing its appreciation of this important industry. The windows of the Kengarian Restaurant are teeming with "good eats," which can be bought reasonable with the assurance of purity and freshness.

tain Airline highway; and, Whereas, the said counties have had a survey of said road made connecting through said counties and with the road as laid out in Kentucky to the Tennessee lines; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this club indorse said highway through Scott and Morgan counties as laid out by said counties; and, be it further

Resolved, That the state highway commission be and they are hereby requested to locate and build said highway as nearly as located by said counties as may be practicable and feasible, having regard to grade and distance.

The official personnel of the Airline Highway association reveals names of men well-known in this section, including one Chattanoogaan. The list is as follows:

President, C. E. Hendrick, Harriman; vice-presidents, W. H. Porter, of Huntsville, Tenn., and R. M. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., secretary-treasurer, H. H. Fraas, of Dayton, Tenn.; directors, E. R. Betterton, Jr., of Chattanooga, for Hamilton county; F. E. Robinson, of Dayton, Tenn., for Rhea; Stiles Kennedy, of Harriman, Tenn., for Roane; W. H. Nelson of Petros, Tenn., for Morgan; John Toomey, of Helenwood, Tenn., for Scott; A. E. Denton, of Stearns, Ky., for McCreary; R. B. Waddle, of Somerset, for Pulaski; W. H. Shanks, of Stanford, Ky., for Lincoln; John M. Farra of Lancaster, Ky., for Garrard; W. B. Buford, of Nicholasville, for Jessamine, and James Maret, of Lexington, Ky., for Fayette.

RALPH GILBERT
Gets Honor Post in Committee
As Ranking Democrat

Representative Ralph Gilbert of the Eighth Kentucky District was advanced recently by minority members of the House to the position of ranking Democratic member of the District of Columbia Committee, one of the twenty major committees of the House. This is said to be the first time in the history of the House a member serving his first term has been so honored by his party.

In the event the Democrats get control of the House next fall, Mr. Gilbert will be chairman of this committee.

The Kentuckian's promotion was occasioned by the resignation of Representative James P. Wood, of Virginia, who left the committee to take a place on the Postoffice Committee. Mr. Gilbert was advanced to Mr. Wood's place over two other Democrats, Representatives C. D. Sullivan, of New York and T. L. Blanton, of Texas.

Second Payment
May The First

We have it on good authority that the second payment to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association members will be handed out during the first week in May. It is the plan now to give these checks out in person to each of the 1,500 members in Garrard county. A meeting of the members may be called for that day in Lancaster, if so, it should be a great day for the town and we suggest that a barbecue be served that day, in celebration of the success of the greatest co-operative enterprise in Kentucky.

Mat Cohen In Good Place

His many friends here were pleased to learn that Mat S. Cohen, former Commissioner of Agriculture for Kentucky, has been placed in charge of the horses of the estate of "Lucky" Baldwin in California. The position, it is understood, carries with it a salary of $10,000 a year. Mr. Cohen is already at the ranch at Arcadia, Calif. His health is rapidly improving. Ill health caused Mr. Cohen to leave Kentucky for the West about two years ago.

"Good Morning Judge"

Governor Morrow has appointed Robert Kinnaird police judge of Lancaster to succeed J. W. Miller, deceased, the appointment having been made this week. The naming of "Judge" Kinnaird is a popular appointment and meets the approval of the citizens of the town, irrespective of political affiliations. Judge Kinnaird is a son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Kinnaird, member of the firm of Kinnaird Brothers and exceedingly popular with all. Success to your administration, Judge Kinnaird.

Sale Next Tuesday

Someone will get a good farm next Tuesday, when Hughes and McCarty, of Stanford will sell the 100 acre farm of B. L. Fagaly, near Crab Orchard. It is ideally located, well improved and will be sold unquestionably. Read about it in section two of this issue.

$25.00 Prize

A. H. Bastin and Son are advertising this week, that they will give $25 in cash to the one raising the largest Squash grown from the Burpee seed, which they are selling. Read the ad on another page and go out and get some of the seed.

Mass Meeting

There will be a Mass Meeting of the members of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association at the Court House in Lancaster Saturday, April 29th, at two o'clock.

It is important that every member come.

L. L. Walker, Chairman.

Sell More Hogs

JOINT
PROCLAMATION*By The Governor of Kentucky
And The State Board of Health, Naming First Week in May as Kentucky "Clean-Up"
Week

WHEREAS, Official reports show that sixty out of every one hundred cases of sickness and forty-three out of every one hundred deaths in Kentucky are due to preventable diseases, many of which are the result of conditions brought about by the careless disposal of human and animal discharges. The accumulation of filth and rubbish about the home and premises, which will afford breeding places for flies, mosquitoes, rats and other insects or vermin, which will, as soon as the warm weather sets in, act as carriers of disease germs, are not only a menace to health, but are unsightly and a reflection on civic pride, besides contributing to the community's fire hazard.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT KNOWN, That the Governor of Kentucky, together with the State Board of Health, by virtue of authority vested in them by law and in discharge of a manifest public duty, do hereby set apart and proclaim the week from April 30th, to Saturday, May 6th, as Kentucky Clean-Up Week and urge upon all health officials, welfare agencies and public-spirited citizens to at once organize for this work in such a way as will insure effective results in their respective communities. The State Board of Health will furnish, upon application, extensive plans for the organization and conduct of such a campaign.

By authority of the Governor of Kentucky, and the State Board of Health this 10th day of April, 1922.

Edwin P. Morrow, Governor,
Commonwealth of Ky., M. C. C.
L. S. McMurry, President, State Board of Health.
A. T. McCormick, Secretary,
State Board of Health.

Judge Prather Hurt

Friends of Judge J. P. Prather will be sorry to learn that he was seriously injured last Sunday afternoon at Buckeye by being struck by a passing automobile. He is suffering with bruises but no broken bones. Judge Prather is 81 years old and his many acquaintances are hoping for his speedy recovery.

S. N. Davis Buys Farm

The Spoonamore farm containing 318 acres was sold last Saturday at public auction and was purchased by our local merchant, Mr. S. N. Davis for $131 and acre, or a total of $41,658.00. The farm is ideally located, the residence lying within the city limits, practically new, with every modern convenience. We understand that Mr. Davis expects to move to his new home in the near future.

On To Springfield

Coach Whittaker of the High School Base Ball Nine informs the Sporting Editor of the Record that he has engaged the services of a Reo Bus from Lexington to take twenty men to Springfield next Friday. If you wish to go over be sure and see him and engage a seat. Let's all go as he has whipped into shape a wonderful nine and should have the encouragement from all the lovers of the National game.

Lands Assessed High

One of the best proofs that could be offered that lands in Garrard county are being assessed at practically their cash value, is proven in the sale of the Spoonamore farm and the Roy Moberly farm, both of which were sold recently under the hammer.

The Moberly farm of 126 acres was assessed at $115 an acre and brought under the hammer $127 an acre. The Spoonamore farm of 318 acres assessed at $117 an acre, brought at public auction last Saturday, $131 an acre. Yet the State Tax Commission thinks that an additional 10 per cent should be added. This would be unfair indeed.

Don't you need some advice about doing over that piece of furniture? Advice free for the asking.

"BOB" HUGHESUnanimously Elected Vice President Citizens Union
National Bank At Louisville*ASSUMES DUTIES TODAY

Ever since R. E. Hughes returned from Sunny California about four weeks ago, together with his estimable family, to locate permanently in his native State, it has not been a question of what he would do, but it has been a question of what he would not do, so many flattering offers having been tendered him on silver salvers. But when he was notified by phone from Louisville Tuesday afternoon, that he had been unanimously elected by the board of directors, Vice President of the Citizens-Union National Bank of Louisville, at a salary well up in the five figures, and which came to him like a bolt from a clear sky, he gracefully accepted the high honor and left for Louisville yesterday afternoon to assume his duties.

His genial personality, affability, business acumen, popularity, untiring energy and Christian character, has brought Robert Elkin Hughes from a "devil" in the printing office of the Central Kentucky News (now The Central Record) to his present honored position by leaps and bounds. Lancaster and Garrard county, where he spent the greater portion of his young life, are proud of him and his achievements and turn with pride to him as an "old Lancaster boy," and wish him even greater success as he climbs the ladder of fame.

As He Once Looked.

Some of His Achievements

Mr. Hughes first attained prominence as owner and editor of The Central Kentucky News at Lancaster. He was only 19 years old at the time. Shortly after this he sold the property and went to Louisville.

Was Reporter of Courier-Journal
His first position was that of business reporter on the old Commercial. In six months he was made city editor of the paper, but resigned not long afterwards to accept the position of business reporter with The Courier-Journal.

In 1903 Mr. Hughes was made Executive Commissioner from Kentucky to the Louisiana Exposition at St. Louis. Upon his return he was chosen secretary of the Commercial Club, serving in that capacity until 1908 when he was elected president of the Kentucky Electric Company.

He held this position until his company was merged with the Louisville Gas & Electric Company in 1913, when he became president of the Jones-Hughes Company, which operated a chain of groceries in Louisville. In 1917 he became business manager of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, remaining about three years.

Active in Civic Enterprises.

Mr. Hughes has been active in civic and patriotic enterprises. He was head of the First Liberty Loan Drive in 1917, which was oversubscribed 100 per cent in 40 per cent of the time allotted. Under his leadership the Million Dollar Factory Fund Campaign, a drive for the relief funds for various conventions were successful.

He has been secretary of the Kentucky State Fair, director general of Kentucky Home Coming Week in 1906, chief executive of the Louisville Industrial Exposition in 1907, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Kentucky Council of Defense and president of the Louisville Convention & Publicity League.

The Citizens-Union National Bank of Louisville is one of the largest financial institutions in the United States. Its great strength resulted from a merger of two of Louisville's greatest banks—the Citizens National and the Union National—a few years ago. Combined with it now is the Fidelity and Columbia Trust Company, which in itself became a giant of business wealth following the uniting of the Fidelity Trust Co., and the Columbia Trust

MAYOR CHAMPAsks Citizens of Lancaster to Assist in Observing
"Clean Up" Week
May 1st. to 6th.

To The Citizens of Lancaster, Ky.:
Wishing to act in accord with the Health officials of the State and for the best interests of our city, the week of May 1 to 6 is hereby set apart and designed as CLEAN-UP WEEK for the city of Lancaster.

Please clean your back yards, your front yards, cellars, attics, and in fact make this week a REAL CLEAN UP WEEK.

All organizations of this city are respectfully invited to assist us in this movement, by advertisement or otherwise.

Respectfully,
W. F. Champ, Mayor.

AmericanLegion Meeting

One of the most important Legion meeting will be held at the I. O. O. F. Lodge on Tuesday night, May 2nd., 1922 at 7:30 P. M. We are reliably informed that this is a meeting of vital importance to all EX-SERVICE men of Garrard County, and they all should attend. The Legion in this county is doing a great work for the ex-service men and if they do not back up the Legion then they have no one to blame but themselves.

Company.

According to the latest report of its condition to the Secretary of the Treasury at Washington, on March 10th., the Citizens Union National Bank had deposits of over twenty million dollars. Its capital stock is one million and its surplus and undivided profits over two million. The Fidelity and Columbia Trust Co., has two million dollars capital and one million dollars surplus.

Jefferson D. Stewart is the president, and John R. Downing, W. R. Cobb and Arch B. Davis the other vice presidents. On its board of directors is found the most successful of Louisville's big public utility men, big merchants, big manufacturers and well-known professional men.

The growth of the Citizens Union National Bank and the Fidelity and Columbia Trust Company, since they have gone together, has been so marvelous that it has already become necessary for the banking and trust quarters to be doubled in size. The Citizens Union has been occupying the first floor of the Inter Southern Building at Fifth and Jefferson. The Inter Southern is now completing an annex to this office building, and the Citizens Union and Fidelity and Columbia, as a single unit, will take the entire ground floor more than twice the former size. They will have 48,000 square feet of floor space, the largest of any banking institution in the entire South.

A formal opening of these magnificent and commodious quarters will take place around the first of June. Those of our citizens who have had the opportunity of looking at them say that this bank and trust company's active business place forms one of Louisville's greatest community assets, and that it will be one of the show points for visitors to the city at the Fall of the Ohio.

4 to 16 Bushels More Corn Per Acre

Missing only four kernels out of every 100 that should be planted means a loss of four bushels per acre. Planting four or five kernels where only three will thrive means a waste of seed, smaller ears and, possibly, barren stalks. You can plant the exact number in practically each and every hill if you use a

JOHN DEERE No. 999 CORN PLANTER

The "Counting-Out" Method of the No. 999 gives you the accuracy that you would get if you painstakingly counted out and dropped the kernels by hand.

By means of the Variable-Drop Device, without stopping the team or leaving the seat, you can change the drop to two, three or four kernels—always the exact number desired. Merely shift a foot lever to make the change.

Change from hilling to drilling, or vice versa, is made instantly by means of foot lever. Nine drilling distances can be secured without changing plates. The No. 999 plants a great variety of seed without cut-off having to be changed.

Fertilizer and pea attachments can be furnished—either or both can be used when planting corn.

Get your share of bigger corn profits by using a John Deere Planter. Come in and see the No. 999.

ELEGANT BLACK FROCKS

Those simple, elegant black frocks of silk crepe, for afternoon, have an aristocratic quality that endears them to women and they are found in all displays. One of them shown here is a straight-line model, bloused at the waist, where roses made of the crepe are set on a giraffe also made of it. The sleeves of georgette are slashed from arm's-eye to cuff and the edges finished with green and white silk braid.

Blooming Plants.

All blooming plants need light and should be turned daily so they do not develop one-sided. A window in the room in which they are should be opened for at least ten minutes daily. If the weather is cold the plants should be removed to the far side of the room.

IMPROVING SOIL AT LITTLE COST

Sweet Clover Is Admirably Adapted Where Decreased Corn Acreage Is Advisable.

CROP MAY BE SEEDING ALONE

Fair Yield of Excellent Hay May Be Cut If Conditions Warrant—Farmer Must Judge for Himself What Crop to Grow.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Where a reduction of corn acreage seems advisable and the land has time enough, sweet clover will lend itself admirably to soil improvement at low cost. While the usual way of seeding is on winter grain or with spring grain, the United States Department of Agriculture advises that it may well be seeded alone on land that is now without a crop. Such land should be harrowed as early as possible and the seed harrowed in, or where the land dries slowly the seed may be scattered directly on the ground as the frost is coming out. There is no need to plow, and so practically the whole expense will consist of the cost of the seed which at present is low. Scarified seed should be used.

Small Cost of Seed.

The price of white sweet clover seed is today considerably less than half that of red clover. If the seed is on the ground early the plants will keep ahead of the weeds and, by September or October, a fair crop of excellent hay can be cut if conditions warrant the expense of cutting. The hay will have practically the same value as alfalfa or red clover hay. In the spring of next year the new growth can be turned under for corn if that crop is desired, or the field can be used for pasture.

Sweet clover is one of the best pasture plants known. If pastured heavily enough it will keep green and growing all through the summer when most grass pasture dries up. It must be kept closely pastured, however, since otherwise it quickly grows tall, blooms and becomes woody. If the field is left in sweet clover during 1923 it can be plowed that fall for grain or go into corn in 1924.

Do Not Improve Soil.

During the past few years large crops of small grain and of corn have been grown, but these have not always proved profitable, and, of course, have not helped to improve the land. The question of what to do under these circumstances is important. If cash returns are necessary the land not put into corn may be planted to soy beans. This crop will require as much labor as corn, however. Where the greatest possible economy in operation is to be combined with soil improvement the farmer will have to turn to grass or clover.

Every farmer must judge for himself whether to grow corn, whether to substitute soy beans or some other crop, or whether to rest the land and derive little or no income from it for one season. The above suggestion is offered by the Department of Agriculture as one way to improve the land while resting it, and to do this with the minimum of expense and labor.

BEST MACHINE FOR BLASTING

Where There Are but Few Stumps to Remove Device Firing Ten Caps Is Satisfactory.

Electric blasting machines are small portable dynamos, so arranged that an electric current is generated by pushing down a rack bar, which extends through the top of the machine. They are made in several sizes, some firing up to 3 electric blasting caps, other sizes firing up to 10, 30, 60, and even more. For the farmer with but a few stumps to blast, the United States Department of Agriculture has found the size that fires 10 caps will be large enough to meet all needs, but the size that fires 30 caps is more generally used than any other in agricultural work.

Blasting machines, as well as all other necessary blasting equipment, can generally be obtained from local dealers in explosives, usually hardware stores, or they may be had by writing directly to any manufacturer of explosives. These machines seldom get out of order, but they should be kept in a dry place and should not be thrown about or handled roughly.

Miss Ida Speake was called home on account of the death of her aunt, Miss Arnett.

Mrs. Nora Pruitt and son, John and brother, Mr. Price Clark, have been ill with flu but have about recovered.

Mrs. Jim White, of West Lancaster, was a visitor at the Fork Sunday and was the dinner guest of Mrs. Ann Swope.

Mrs. Ella Cecil and daughter, Miss Annie T. Cecil, of Danville, came over Sunday to spend several weeks with relatives.

Mrs. Ben Hughes and Miss Della Rice Hughes, of Lancaster, were the guests of Miss Susan K. Sutton two days last week.

Mr. T. E. Thompson was unanimously elected messenger by the B. Y. P. U. to attend the general association, which meets in Covington.

Master Cyrus Skaggs, of Paint Lick spent the week-end with Mr. Robt. Clark. Also his sister, Miss Rachel was visiting the Misses Center at the same time.

Miss Martha Curtis is making some lovely bead necklaces. Those who are contemplating a purchase would do well to look over the stock that Miss Curtis has on hand.

Mrs. Ernest Gosney chartered a party on a fishing trip last Saturday. Mrs. Gosney was the only one out of the crowd, having the distinction of catching any fish—She having caught 15.

Miss Annie Blanks, President of group No. 3, of the B. Y's. carried out a good program Sunday evening at the church. Misses Hunter, Martha Curtis, Mrs. Nina Gosney, Mr. Gene Thompson gave talks on Tithing, each one handling their subject in an easy manner. The Vice Pres. Mr. Homer Rice complimented the work of this particular group.

The last examination of the Bible Study Course was given by Mr. E. E. Thompson last Thursday evening at the parsonage. The certificates were awarded by their teacher Sunday night for the completion of the course. The whole class received a good average. Miss Susan K. Sutton, having received the highest average, which was 97½.

Miss Margaret Arnett died at the home of Mr. Sam Speake Apr. 10th.

She was born in Woodford county in 1829, having lived in her native county and at the old home place until four years ago, when she came to spend her last years with the family of Mr. Sam Speake. She never knew what it was to be sick until she got a fall, which caused her death, Miss Arnett was the aunt of Mrs. Speake. She met death without a struggle and died so quietly that the family thought she was just sleeping. She was interred in the family burying ground in Lexington.

Nothing Better to Straighten You Out After Eating Too Much, Too Fast, Too Late, Too Often, Too Frequently, Too Often, Too Frequently.

Many people eat too much every day and most eat much too much some days. That is why Americans suffer more from indigestion, biliousness and constipation. With a little thoughtfulness and care, however, a great amount of this distress could be avoided and you'll never realize how true this is until you become one of the several million people of this country who keep a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) constantly on hand and use it whenever indigestion, biliousness or constipation threatens. Unlike laxative purges, cathartics, such as oil, calomel, etc., which merely force bowel action, Nature's Remedy exerts a beneficial influence upon the entire digestive and eliminative system—the stomach, liver, bowels and even the kidneys. Its purpose is to promote vigorous and harmonious action of all the organs that handle the food and body waste.

That is why the results which follow the use of Nature's Remedy are always a delightful surprise to those who first try it. The action while prompt and thorough, is as mild and gentle as pleasant as Nature herself, and the thorough cleansing the body receives brings a feeling of relief and benefit such as no laxative pill or cathartic ever produced for anyone.

Get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and try it. There is no risk in doing so, for it must give you greater relief and benefit than any liver or bowel medicine you ever used or money back instantly. It is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Low Egg Price Ushers

In Preserving Season

Thousands of dozens of Kentucky eggs will be placed in water glass during the coming few months while eggs are cheap for use next winter when prices for this product soar, according to poultrymen at the College of Agriculture. Use of the water glass method of preserving makes it possible to have winter eggs at about one-half of what fresh ones would cost, the poultrymen say.

Eggs can be kept fresh as long as a year by the following method, according to J. R. Smith, extension poultryman.

"Only absolutely fresh eggs should be preserved, candling being advisable if there is any doubt as to their freshness. Dirty eggs or eggs that have been washed should not be used. Washed eggs will not keep because the protective covering has been removed while dirty eggs will become tainted in flavor. Infertile eggs should be used whenever it is possible to obtain them.

"Commercial water glass, which may be bought at any drug store, is used at the rate of one quart to nine quarts of water that has been boiled and then cooled. The mixture is stirred until the ingredients are thoroughly mixed.

"A clean stone jar has been found to be the most suitable container, one eight-gallon jar being sufficient for 15 dozen eggs. One quart of the water glass and nine of water will preserve this quantity. The eggs are placed in the solution so that those at the top are covered by at least two inches of liquid after which the jar should be covered to prevent evaporation. The jar needs to be stored in a cool place where it will be undisturbed.

"The housekeeper who wants to save steps need not go to the jar every time she wishes an egg but may take enough out of the solution to last several days, providing she has a cool place to keep them. Eggs may be added to the solution from time to time without danger of spoiling those already in it."

Life as I See It.

A young fellow starting in life trusts everybody and when he gets old he trusts nobody. Who's to blame?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Practical Uncle.

The wealthy uncle was talking over the prospects of his nephew with the boy's mother. "How is he doing with his studies?" "Oh, very well. He's very intelligent; he shows a great talent for music, and his manner is very haughty. His teacher thinks he will become a conductor?" "Ah! Indeed!" responded his uncle; "bus or trolley car?"

Tobacco Legends.

According to one fantastic legend Adam got so bored with Eve that he asked God to send him a consolation, and God sent tobacco. The other story relates that our First Mother got so "fed up" with her husband's attentions that she prayed God to send him some other distraction, and the heavenly gift of tobacco answered her prayer.—Montreal Family Herald.

GOOD YEAR

GREAT DAYS FOR THE TIRE-BUYERS

These are great days for the buyer of Goodyear Tires.

For less money, now, he buys more mileage and greater freedom from trouble, than at any previous time in his life.

The primary reason for this is the increased quality and serviceability of Goodyear Tires.

An important supplementary reason is the exceedingly low price at which they now are sold.

They are building Goodyear Tires today better than ever before.

They are making them larger, heavier, stronger, and more durable.

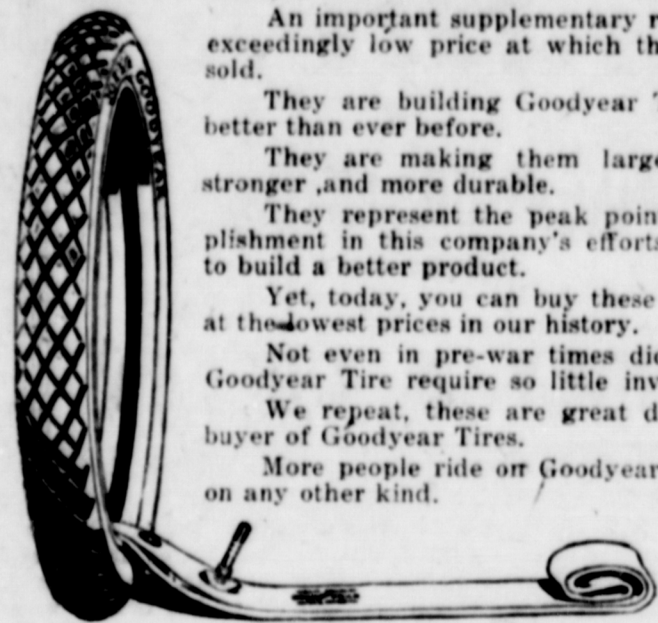

They represent the peak point of accomplishment in this company's efforts constantly to build a better product.

Yet, today, you can buy these better tires at the lowest prices in our history.

Not even in pre-war times did a genuine Goodyear Tire require so little investment.

We repeat, these are great days for the buyer of Goodyear Tires.

More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Commissioner's Sale Of Land

GARRARD CIRCUIT COURT.

J. R. Haselden et al. Plaintiffs.

J. T. Manuel, et al. Defendants.

Pursuant to a judgment rendered at the March Term, 1922, the undersigned Commissioner will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, at the Court House door in Lancaster, Kentucky, at 11 o'clock A. M., or thereabouts, on the real estate mentioned in the pleadings and described as follows:

MONDAY, APRIL 24th., 1922,

Located in Garrard County, Ky. Beginning at a stone formerly an elm corner to Middleton and Marksburg; N. 88 1/2, W. 33.40 poles to a beech near gate; thence N. 86, W. 62 poles to a stake; thence N. 87 3/4, W. 63.12 poles to a small locust; thence S. 85 3/4, W. 37.50 poles to a stone, where an ash stump formerly stood; thence South 41 1/2 poles to a stake on a branch, S. 89 1/2, W. 24 poles to a lynn stump; thence N. 2 1/2, E. 109 poles to a stake; thence the division line S. 88 1/2, E. 245 poles to a stone in a lane; thence S. 4 1/2, W. 70 1/2 poles to the beginning, containing 98 acres, 3 rods and 29 poles less 14 acres and 8.57 poles conveyed to T. I. Herring, and 4 acres and 3 rods conveyed to M. G. Aldridge.

The purpose of said sale is to satisfy the lien debt of the Commonwealth Life Insurance Company of Louisville, amounting to date of sale to $3,796.24, and for satisfying any other liens that may be adjudged against the property in the future proceedings in this case, together with the estimated cost of this action, amounting to $225.00.

TERMS.

The sale will be made on a credit of six and twelve months, and the purchaser will be required to execute bonds with approved security, for the purchase price, payable to W. H. Brown, Master Commissioner, due in six and twelve months respectively, with interest at six per cent per annum from date until paid, having the force and effect of a judgment, upon which execution may issue, and a lien will be retained upon the land until the purchase money is paid.

W. H. Brown, Master Commissioner Garrard Circuit Court.

COATS RESEMBLE CAPES

One must look twice at many a spring wrap to determine whether it is a cape, pure and simple, or a more complex wrap. The more like a cape it looks the better its chances of winning approval from the fashionables. The cape has always stood women in good stead, nevertheless it will not hold her allegiance season after season without modifications, and we have them in the cape-wrap.

For general wear the spring offers, among others, the graceful wrap shown here. It is made of tricotline and has a large collar trimmed with applied loops of silk braid. At the back, loose, pendant panels of the cloth are finished with silk cords ending in slender tassels. Something between a sleeve and a slit at each side of the front allows freedom for the hands and arms. Altogether this is a smart and practical wrap for general wear and is developed in several coatings and colors.

WILL HONOR HEROES

Commonwealth of Kentucky To Raise Funds For Memorial Building at Lexington

Commemoration of the sacrifice of Kentucky heroes in the World War will be the object of thousands of men, women and children of the State during the week of April 23-29 when they set out to raise $200,000 for a memorial building.

Names of the 3,056 who died will be placed on the bronze tablets in the building which will be used daily as a chapel and union by thousands of young people from every section of Kentucky attending the State University at Lexington. Records of Kentucky's part in the war, work of private citizens and of those in the military service, will be kept there in addition to war trophies.

An army of 150,000 school children will start out Monday, April 24, to raise one dollar each. The plan was endorsed by State Superintendent George Colvin and the Kentucky Educational Association at its annual meeting in Louisville. Superintendents, principals and teachers have been requested to assume direction of the school children's soliciting, acting as treasurer and either turning in the funds to the woman County Chairman or sending them to State Headquarters, 210 Fifth Street, Louisville.

Governor Morrow's proclamation follows:

"Those who have not forgotten the courage of the living and the glorious sacrifice of the dead; those who remember the soldiers of the great war who offered and gave themselves for us, will during the week of April 23-29 conduct throughout Kentucky a campaign to raise $200,000 for the purpose of erecting at the University of Kentucky a memorial chapel to perpetuate the lives and deeds and services of the American soldiers of the great war.

"The University of the Commonwealth is linked with the young manhood of Kentucky, and it is therefore fitting that on such a spot there should stand a memorial to the courageous youth of our State. No real monument or other memorial has been erected in Kentucky for this purpose thus far. I am, therefore, confident that this appeal will reach the heart and the purse of the patriotic citizens of the State. We honor ourselves when we honor those who died for us. We make certain that the spirit of yesterday will live throughout our tomorrow if we honor courage and nobility and sacrifice.

"I, therefore, set aside the week of April 23-29 as War Memorial Week, and call upon the men and women of Kentucky, the sons and daughters of the Republic, those who inherit and hold all for which the dead have died to lend their hearts and hands to the success of this campaign. The living offered and the dead gave their lives. We can give out of that which God has given to us that the memory of their deeds shall abide forever with us."

James C. Wilson, of Louisville, who was one of the most successful directors of Liberty Loan campaigns in the South, has been appointed State Chairman for this campaign.

The following poem, dedicating the Kentucky Memorial Building to the fallen heroes, winner of a state-wide contest, was written by Mrs. Eleanor Duncan Wood, of Maysville:

Dear Motherland, Kentucky, here we bring
The names of these thy sons who nobly died.
Who for Thy sake and Freedom's put aside
Young Love, and Lusty Life, and Call
- of Spring,
And strode down Death's dark ways
adventuring.

We cannot bring them back; we cannot give
To their young eyes the joy of sunrise, nor
To eager ears that call they harkened for

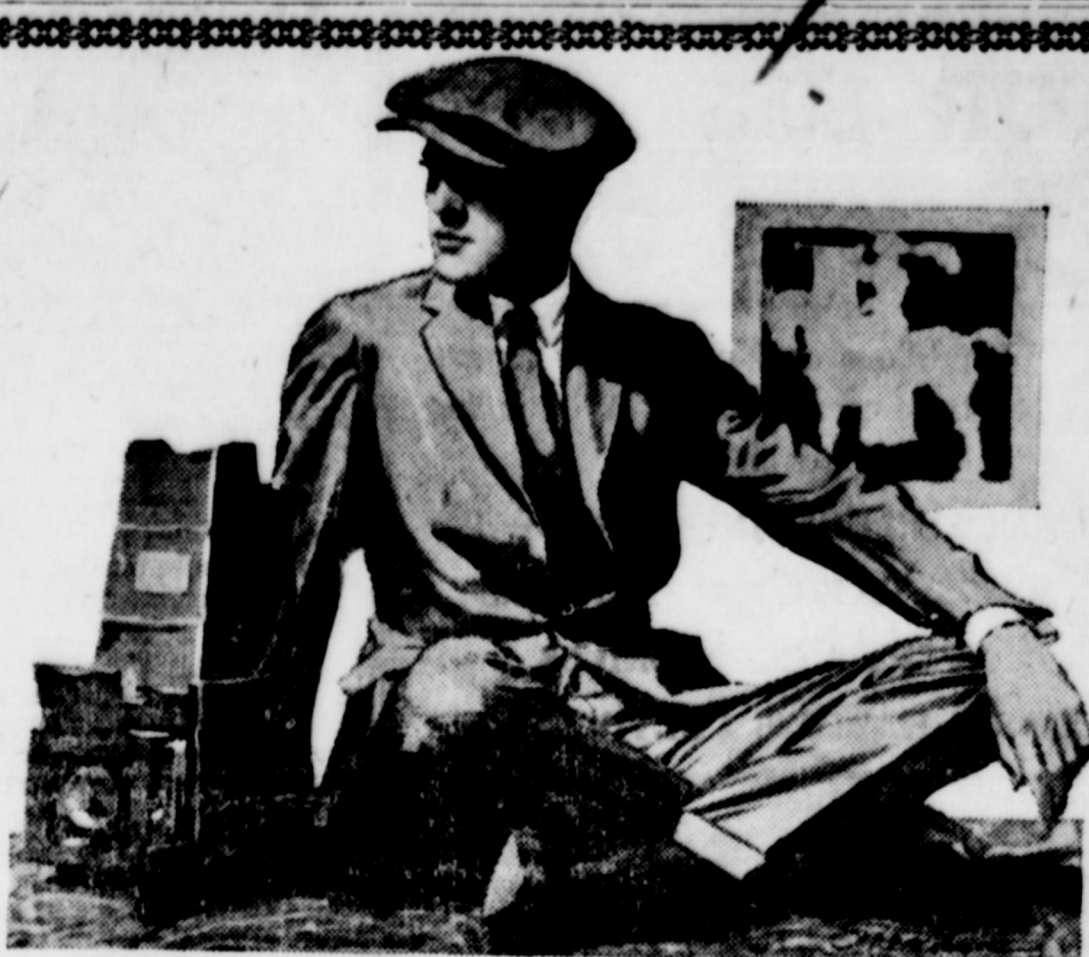

The cardinal among the hills of home
They live
But in our hearts—and these are fugitive.

We shall go down to dust even as they.
So to Thy Heart, Kentucky, bring we now
These deathless names. A coronet for thy brow
Best-loved, and Beautiful. And thou shalt pay
Unending honor till Time's latest day.

And it shall be throughout the coming years
Young hearts shall proudly read these hero-names
And feel within their own the sacred flames,
"We'll live for what they died for—spite of fears,"
So faith shall spring once more from blood and tears.

Keep safe these names: Thy sons who would not save Themselves at price of Liberty and Thee.
The "Old Kentucky Home" shall hallowed be
Throughout the ages by the blood they gave;
Keep them then safe, Thy Beautiful and Brave.

This poem will be on marble or bronze and placed in the Memorial Building.

Congressman Barkley For Governor

We observe more or less discussion in the press as well as among democrats every where as to the probable nominee for Governor next year. It is well enough for democrats to begin to consider the merits of the proposed leaders of the party even at this early date. In this way we may be able to unite upon a candidate pleasing to all. We all want the right man to lead in the next State contest. Democrats everywhere are sick and tired of the broken promises and misrule of the present State administration.

The Record shall give its untiring support to any leader the party may select. But like all good democrats we want a strong and acceptable candidate. While there are a number of names mentioned, most of them are 'Favorite Sons' and will not be long before the public, as is usually the case. It seems that most democrats have it in mind that the leader of the State ticket next year shall be Congressman Albin W. Barkley in the First District. At least his name is the one we hear discussed generally and see mentioned most frequently in the public press. He is suggested by Col. E. C. Walton in that popular and influential paper, The Interior Journal, of Lincoln county.

The Danville Daily Messenger as well as Col. Richardson's paper, The Danville Daily Advocate, think that Barkley is the man to select. The Harrodsburg Herald, Mercer county takes the suggestion of his nomination favorably. The country press generally in Western Kentucky want Barkley nominated.

We hear his candidacy well spoken of among democrats in this county where Mr. Barkley is universally popular. He has visited here a number of times and made several democratic speeches pleasing the large crowds always assembled to greet him when he comes.

While it is quite early to make prophecies, we are never the less going to suggest that when the show down comes and after all the "Favorite Sons" have had the opportunity of feeling the public pulse, there will be but one candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1923 and that will be Hon. Albin W. Barkley. Mr. Barkley is one of the best qualified leaders we have in the party; a magnetic personality, eloquent speaker, experienced in public duties, belonging to no political factions in the party, clean in private life and personally very popular, are some of the qualities which fit him for leadership as the nominee for Governor in 1923.

Reputable people everywhere, especially in our cities, are at a loss to know how to reduce the crime wave that is engulfing this country.

The season of perplexity in which we find ourselves reminds us of the woman who had a baby tiger for a pet.

It was little, and cute, and harmless in its infancy. But in time it grew strong, and one day it decided that its mistress would make a good meal—and she did.

When crime was at a low ebb we looked upon it as a matter of course, and neglected the precautionary measures necessary to prevent its spread.

Right under our noses it has grown to enormous proportions, and now we are apparently helpless in its grasp.

The tiger is no more dangerous than the criminal with his gun. Both should be rendered harmless before they get beyond control.

Live merchants advertise because they want the people to know of the goods they have to sell, especially when more than ordinary values are offered.

People read the ads because they want to know where they can buy to best advantage, and this can only be determined by knowing what the merchants have to offer.

The local paper is the medium between seller and buyer.

The one should use it, and the other should read it.

Funny, isn't it? Yet it does not seem to raise a laugh.

Political factions will accuse each other of every conceivable crime during an election, and then forget all about it after the votes are counted. They will even take a long swig from the same bottle.

If they were convicted of one-tenth of the crimes charged against them there would not be jails enough in the country to hold them.

But it seems to be the way of human nature.

And most of us are human.

A noted preacher says our American women are so bad they will cause the destruction of this country within fifty years.

We thank the revered gentleman for postponing our exit for fifty years. Our eyes are still good and we can take in a lot of sights in that length of time.

It may be true, as he says, that the women of today are bad—at least some of them are. But realizing the enormity of our own masculine sins, we are not throwing any stones at the fair sex—not even at the flappers.

Then again, fifty years is a long time to wait for the blow-up, or kickoff, or whatever way we are to be snuffed out.

They may be bad—we don't know—but we like 'em all, even in their badness.

We'll continue to take 'em as they come, and crowd in as many of those fifty years as we can.

Two teaspoonsful of Tanlac in a little water taken three times a day just before meals will make you eat better, feel better, sleep better and work better.

Warm For Barkley

(Interior Journal)

The Interior Journal will support any good democrat who is nominated for governor, but it wants a strong one to go against the republicans next year. It does not want to take chances on such accidents as we are now experiencing. Like many another democrat, a number of republicans as well, it wants no more administrations like the present. In order to insure democratic success, which is synonymous with good government, it will be necessary to use care and judgment in the selection of a standard bearer. No democrat who is or has been identified with the factions that exist, or have formerly existed, should be considered, for such might endanger the success of the party of parties. What is wanted is a real man and a democrat in whom there is no semblance of guile. A man in whom the people have confidence; who has strength at home and abroad; who is known from Mills' Point to the Big Sandy, and about whom nothing but good can be said. This paper thinks that Mr. Albin W. Barkley, of Paducah, fills the bill to a nicety and hopes that gentleman can be induced to make the race. For a number of terms he has represented most creditably the rock-ribbed democratic Gibraltar—the First District, and he is known and admired by every citizen of the counties composing his district. He was the one man that big-bodied, big-brained Ollie James feared because of his superior ability and his superb record as a lawyer, a statesman and a business man. Mr. Barkley is splendidly equipped for the governorship and, in our opinion, would make the strongest race of any democrat in the State. He can win the nomination without trouble and can best any republican our friends—the enemy—may pit against him. He would not only make a strong race but a good, strong governor, one that we could point to with pride and be proud to call our own. Gov. Barkley sounds good to this paper. We hope and believe it will sound good to all the people of this State for the four years beginning in December of the good year, 1923.

"Tanlac did what everything else failed to do." Thousands have said it. So will you.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY

Endorses Careful Crossing Campaign

Washington, D. C.—Through systematic efforts and whole-hearted cooperation on the part of railroadway officers and employees, casualties among employees on Southern Railway System have shown a constant decrease month after month, and the result of this effort is reflected in that during February, 1922, there was not a single fatality among employees of the entire System and less than two hundred injuries.

The Southern during the past few months has shown safety pictures in many of the cities and towns in the South, and Vice President H. W. Miller, in charge of operation, announces that, owing to the large number of casualties that are occurring at highway grade crossings each month and to assist further in community safety, the Southern will enter wholeheartedly into the careful crossing campaign, which will be conducted throughout the country during the summer months.

Arnett

Miss Margaret Arnett, age 92 years, 4 months and 22 days, passed peacefully into the Great Beyond on Monday morning, April 10th. She had been seriously ill only one week. Everything that loving hands could do for her was done, but to no avail, for the Angel of Death came and bore her spirit back to the God Who gave it.

Her life was one of service, both to her God and fellowman. As long as her health would permit she attended the Christian church at Mortonsville, Woodford county, of which she was a faithful member, since 16 years of age.

Miss Arnett was born in Woodford county in 1829 and lived at the same place for 88 years. During the earlier part of her life she spun flax and made it into clothes for her younger brothers and sisters.

In 1918 her youngest brother passed on before her at the advanced age of 84. She then came to make her home with her niece, Mrs. Sam Speake, of this county.

Wednesday morning at ten o'clock Rev. E. B. Bourland of the Lancaster Christian church preached her funeral, then her body was taken to Lexington and laid to rest in the family lot.

Make Whitewash This Way

Whitewash properly made is almost as serviceable as paint for rough wood, brick or stone and much cheaper than the cheapest paint, according to the farm engineering department of the State College of Agriculture.

Directions for making the Government whitewash which is recommended by the college are as follows.

Take one-half bushel of unslacked lime, slake it with boiling water, cover during the process to keep in the steam, strain through a fine sieve or strainer and add to it a peck of salt, previously dissolved in warm water; three pounds of ground rice boiled to a thin paste and stirred in while hot; half a pound of Spanish whiting and one pound of clean glue, previously dissolved by soaking in clean water and then hanging over a slow pot hung in a larger one filled with water. Add five gallons of water to the mixture, stir well and let stand for a few days covered from dirt. The wash should be applied hot, for which purpose it can be kept in a kettle or portable furnace. A pint of this mixture if properly applied will cover one yard.

Baptist Church News

Our hats are off to our genial Superintendent as a first rate entertainer. The children of the Junior classes enjoyed an Easter egg hunt at his home last Sunday afternoon, and the members of the young men's class were his guests at the Puritan last Friday afternoon. The refreshments were only a side issue of the school auto race, and the young men won the first lap to El Paso, but the Cadillac passed them with a whizz last Sunday, and the Reo is now in third place.

A splendid display of beautiful flowers and plants arranged around the rostrum added much to the appearance of the church for Easter Sunday. The choir rendered some special music which was a decided contribution to the service. The stereopticon slides shown in the evening portrayed the closing scenes in the life of our Lord and illustrated the old Gospel classic, "Rock of Ages." Other songs descriptive of the slides shown were sung during the service.

Campaign pledges are now due. Will you not plan to pay up in part or in full by next Sunday?

Just two more Sundays in this convention year. Let us make them the best of the year. The Sunday School attendance last Sunday was 132, with 54 Bibles and over $4.00 collection. Our goal is 200. Come over and help us reach it next Sunday. The topic for the morning sermon will be "Old-Time Power for Present-Time Problems." Evening service at 7:30. All are cordially invited to the services.

The State B. Y. P. U. Convention is in session at Covington this week. Miss Jane Williams is the delegate from our Society.

Tanlac is the result of years of study, experimentation and research by some of the world's greatest chemists. Hence its merit.

THIRTY THIRD YEAR

LANCASTER, KY., THURSDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 20, 1922.

NUMBER 2.

PAINT LICK HAPPENINGS

JOTTINGS GLEANED FROM PROSPEROUS EAST END HAMLET.

A representative of the Central Record spent a very delightful two hours in the thriving little hamlet of Paint Lick last Friday afternoon and found business humming and everybody happy and seemingly enjoying life to its fullest. No better people live in Kentucky than those inhabitants of Paint Lick and her surrounding community. She possesses one of the best Graded and High Schools in the county, with an enrollment of over three hundred, and equipped with a splendid corp of teachers.

One of the best and safest State Banks in the state, is the Peoples Bank of Paint Lick, with a capital stock of only $15,000 but with a surplus of nearly $30,000 and with deposits nearly reaching the quarter of a million dollar mark. Mr. E. L. Woods has been its president for many many years and R. G. Woods the Cashier. Mr. Edwin Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woods Walker is the genial and accommodating assistant cashier and is making good with the position he assumed about six months ago.

Paint Lick can truthfully boast of some of the best business firms of any town of its state in Kentucky. Among those we had the pleasure of calling upon was the firm of Logsdon and Company, successors to our present County Judge, G. M. Treadway. The firm is composed of three splendid young men, Messrs. Thomas Logsdon, Morris Todd and W. E. Ralston. They carry everything found in a country store and their business occupies two large store rooms.

Just across the street is the general merchandise store of J. H. Ralston, who succeeded Robert Estridge, about six months ago. Mr. Ralston does a nice business and is a very popular young business man. He owns the only soda fountain in the city and is planning in the very near future installing a new one of the latest type and model.

Hervey and Woods is another one of the foremost firms in the city, carrying furniture and a general stock of hardware. The members of the firm are: Dave Hervey and R. G. Woods. There never was a cleverer fellow than Dave, and his friends are numbered only by his acquaintances.

John H. Pennington has recently purchased the stock and good will of Robert H. Ledford and has an ideal store room and doubtless will do a thriving business. He is well known to the people of Paint Lick. He will carry fresh meats and ice throughout the year and has made quite a reputation for killing only the choicest beeves to be had in that community.

In the trade with Mr. Pennington, Mr. Ledford gets the Gillispie farm near Lowell.

Robert H. Ledford is to be Paint Lick's new postmaster, and is expecting his commission to arrive at any time. He succeeds Mr. Robert J. Walker who made a splendid official. Mr. Ledford will look after the office alone, giving it his entire time. The office carries with it a salary of $1,300 a year, with an additional allowance for an assistant, being a second class office.

L. H. Davis is the hustling proprietor of a general merchandise store, which occupies the space of the old Burnam and Rucker mill, which was destroyed by fire several months ago. Mr. Davis has erected a substantial building here, covering the entire ground space and he carries a little of everything and lots of some things. He handles "American Queen" flour and buys it by the car load, which enables him, he says, to sell it just a little cheaper than the other fellow. Mr. Davis is a genial, wholesom fellow and one of the boss fishermen of that community. He will leave a customer any time to tell you of the 225 pound sea bass he landed himself in February, 1921.

The fish is on exhibition, being beautifully mounted and occupies a good portion of one side of his store. It was caught on the West coast of Florida, at Boca Grande, near Charlotte Harbor. He together with Dr. J. H. Patrick, Sam Denny and Dr. Carman, expect to worry the finny tribe in Rockcastle river in the near future, as is their custom every year.

Speaking of fishermen, it is said that Tim Alexander Davis, Ed Hurt and Sam Hurt hold the record in that community for landing some large catfish. They are true sports and fish only with hook and line.

N. R. Patrick and Son are proprietors of one of the foremost garages in the city. They carry everything in the accessory line and have a number of expert mechanics in their employ. One can't go to Paint Lick without bumping into Mr. Patrick, who always gives you the glad hand and makes you welcome. He's alright.

Possibly one of the liveliest firms in Paint Lick, and one that believes in advertising, is the Paint Lick Garage, the members of whom are Messrs. W. B. Roop, R. G. Woods and Roy Estridge. This firm is well equipped for this line of work and have as head mechanic, Mr. O. B. Peyton, an expert when it comes to administering to the ills of any car. This firm is the agents for the Chevrolet and Dodge cars, two of the most popular cars on the market today. Their advertisement appears on this page and gives some interesting facts concerning the Chevrolet car.

One can hardly think of buggy painting or repairing, without thinking of O. L. Hammack, who is not very old, but is one of the landmarks of Paint Lick and does a "land-office" business near the depot in this city. He guarantees all his work and his prices are reasonable indeed. Give him a call, he will treat you right.

George Conn is another of Paint Lick's business men and a mechanic who can make anything from a horseshoe to a threshing machine. He comes of a family of experts and is closely related to many in Lancaster, although he doesn't visit Garrard's capital as often as his friends would have him do.

One can never miss getting a square meal in Paint Lick, if he only stops with Mrs. John Coldiron, whose tables fairly groan with the delicacies of the season, served in family style and a "help yourself" invitation, that makes one feel that he was glad to have been there.

Every preparation is being made and the event looked forward with consuming interest, for the series of meetings that is to begin in Paint Lick the first Monday night in May at the Methodist church in that city. Rev. N. H. Young, the local pastor, together with his entire membership, as well as the entire community, expect to join in making it one of the best meetings ever held in this little province. The meeting will be conducted by Rev. Carl Vogel, of Berea, one of the noted divines of that educational city.

A horse attached to the buggy of William Ledford, ran away last Friday, starting from the shop of O. L. Hammack, turning into main street, across the bridge at a "mile a minute" gate, where he parked suddenly against the stone fence, with a completely wrecked vehicle and the horse more less seriously but not dangerously injured. No one was hurt, but the incident brought out the entire populace and excitement was a fever heat for a few minutes.

Death Claims

James B. Guynn

The citizens of this community were deeply grieved when the news was heralded that Mr. James B. Guynn, one of Paint Lick's most useful citizens and the community's most prosperous farmers had passed into the Great Beyond. His death was not unexpected, however, for he had been extremely ill for several months, having been stricken with paralysis several months ago, from which fatal disease he had never convalesced. He was 75 years of age and was blessed with many warm friends and respected by all who knew him. He had been for many years a devout member of the Presbyterian church, faithful to its teachings and upright in his dealings with his fellowman. Funeral services were conducted at the Lancaster cemetery last Friday morning, by his pastor, Rev. W. A. Ramsey, where the interment followed. He is survived by one son, J. Walker Guynn, and one brother, Robert Guynn, of Paint Lick and one sister, of Jessamine county.

Card of Thanks

I take this method of expressing my sincere appreciation to the friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful to my father during his last days.
J. Walker Guynn.

An Explanation

In justice to all the Paint Lick readers, as well as to our correspondents from this place, we wish to state that both Miss Burchell and Mrs. Hall were absent from the city during the present week, hence the omission of their new letter, which has been appearing so regularly heretofore. We hope that with the assistance of the residents of this community, we can give even a better page and more news in the future than we are giving you this week. (Editor.)

"POULTRY DAY"

Garrard County Poultry Raisers Invited to Lexington April 26th.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE HOST

Lexington, Ky.—Garrard county farmers and their wives who are interested in improving their poultry flocks will be among those who will have a special invitation to attend the first "Poultry Day" to be held on the College of Agriculture farm here April 26th., has been announced. While the program for the event has been designed for farmers in all parts of the State, the college and Home Agent, Miss Joyce Syler will make a special effort to have a large delegation from Garrard county attend. The county is close enough to the college farm to give farmers living in it a good opportunity to obtain new pointers on the care and management of their flocks, it is believed.

Following a description of the farm by J. H. Martin, in charge of the college poultry work, those who come here for the day will be shown the breeding pens where the mating of six different breeds will be explained, the brooders where 1,500 chicks of different ages are being reared under coal and oil burning brooders and the large laying house of the farm with 300 hens. The method of managing the laying flock together with the electric light experiment to increase egg production will be explained at this point.

In experiments now under way, the college poultrymen will explain those comparing sour skim milk, semisolid buttermilk and meat scrap in the laying ration, those showing the value of limestone in the laying ration of hens, those showing the inheritance of egg shell color and skin color together with those designed to show the best type of poultry houses for various conditions. The use of various types of incubators including 1,800 eggs one together with several small ones also will be explained.

Addresses and discussions on a variety of poultry problems by Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the college, J. R. Smith, extension poultryman and Mr. Martin will help round out the day's activities.

The college poultry farm is said to be well equipped to help farmers with their poultry problems. It contains eight acres of land, has 800 birds on it and has an incubation capacity of 3,300 eggs. The highest producing Leghorn on the farm produced 260 eggs in a year while the highest producing Wyandotte laid 248 eggs in the same time.

Hanging in the room which Marshal Foch of France has reserved in his home for the thousands of presents he received while touring the United States under the auspices of the American Legion are the keys to eleven of America's largest cities. All the gifts which Americans bestowed on the Marshal are in his "American room" except the famous Montana bob cat which now paces a cage in the Paris Zoological Gardens. Time has so thinned the ranks of the G. A. R. at St. Cloud, Minn., that the few remaining members have voted to disband and turn over to the American Legion the responsibility of observing Memorial and other days on which the boys of '61 have honored their dead comrades for more than half a century.

HASTY CONCLUSIONS SHOULD BE AVOIDED

All Angles of Farm Enterprise Should Be Considered.

If Cows Were Sold There Would Be No Way of Using Roughage—Labor Also Would Be Lost, Adding Another Burden.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hasty conclusions should be avoided in making use of the results of the year's cost accounts for improving the organization of the farm, warns the United States Department of Agriculture. All good farmers know that sometimes a positive decrease in profits may ensue if an enterprise be dropped because, taken alone, it has failed to pay. Cows, for instance, may not show a net profit, but if all the cows were sold there might be no other way of using the roughage, which would become a dead loss. Labor devoted night and morning to milking and feeding cows, and charged to them, would be entirely lost if the cows were sold and nothing supplied to fill in the time. Thus an added burden for the maintenance of labor would have to be borne by the other enterprises.

Keeping of Cows May Be Responsible for Making Hogs So Profitable.

The fact that the hogs or the corn crop bring the most net money during the season is no reason for assuming that all the activities of the farm in the future should be devoted solely to hogs or corn. It may be that the keeping of cows is partly responsible for making hogs so profitable, or that the growing of wheat, clover, or other crops in rotation with corn makes the latter crop much more profitable than it would have been if grown alone.

Similar conditions will be met with on all farms and, therefore, no sudden changes should be made on the basis of what a single year's accounts may indicate. All angles of the enterprise should be taken into consideration.

POTASH IN WOOL RECOVERED

Small Washer Has Been Designed and Is Being Tried by the Bureau of Chemistry.

A small wool washer made for recovering potash from fleeces is a solution of sufficient concentration to make the recovery of the potash profitable has been designed and is being tried out by the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is said that the average fleece contains about 4 per cent of potash by weight, but in the ordinary method of washing wool it comes out in such dilute solution that it does not pay to recover the salt.

About 600,000,000 pounds of wool are secured in the United States each year, and if only 3 per cent of potash is recovered it would amount to 18,000,000 pounds of actual potash that would be available for use in fertilizers. Some nitrogen is also recovered from wool along with the potash.

INOCULATION OF SOY BEANS

When Sown on Land Not Previously Planted to Crop It Is Advisable to Use Culture.

Natural inoculation now occurs quite generally throughout much of the area where soy beans are grown extensively. When sown on land which has not been previously planted to this crop, however, it is advisable to inoculate with the proper culture. Inoculation may be obtained, either through the use of a pure culture, a limited quantity of which can be procured from the United States Department of Agriculture free of charge, or by the use of inoculated soil from a field where soy bean plants have previously developed nodules. The inoculated soil may be drilled in at the time of seeding, using the fertilizer box, or by thoroughly mixing a gallon of the soil to a bushel of seed.

STRAWBERRIES ALL SUMMER

Popular Varieties Are Progressive and Superb—Resistant to Leaf-Spot Diseases.

Strawberry plants which will continue to produce strawberries until hard frosts occur may be grown in all of the northern United States and in the mid-western states. The two leading varieties of this type of strawberry, the progressive and the superb, are notable because they are exceptionally resistant to leaf-spot diseases. Another remarkable characteristic of these varieties is that if their blooms are killed by frost they soon flower again. Therefore, in sections subject to late spring frosts, which often destroy the crop, these varieties are particularly valuable.—United States Department of Agriculture.

American Legion News

A Legion commander for the first time made use of the radio telephone in broadcasting a message to the ex-service men of America when Hanford MacNider stood in Detroit, Mich. and from station WWJ sent an Easter greeting that was heard in all middle western states and as far south as the Gulf.

The fine points of bravery are not unknown to Gov. Harry L. Davis, of Ohio, but when he was asked to pick the bravest ex-soldier in Ohio to represent the Buckeye population at a national assemblage in San Francisco, Calif., he declined the large responsibility. At his request the American Legion undertook the selection.

Poison gas which A. M. Thompson, Cheyenne, Wyo., policeman, inhaled in France during the war four years ago, had just caused him to lose 26 teeth, according to a report made by the American Legion. The policeman recovered from a long illness after the teeth had been removed.

Smarting red eyes among Brooklyn, N. Y., school children caused several shop owners to be haled into court. It was found that merchants were selling a war-time device for purifying water consumed by soldiers as "toy bombs," which threw off poison fumes upon exploding.

So confident are the ex-service men of Emporia, Kans., that the adjusted compensation measure will be passed by the Senate that the American Legion members of that place have pledged $3,000 of the expected money to be used as the nucleus of a fund to erect a suitable community club house.

In Korea, where Fords cost $1,012.50, former members of the A. E. F. have banded themselves together under the leadership of M. L. Swineheart, treasurer of the Southern Presbyterian mission of the Hermit Kingdom, and formed a post of the American Legion. About a dozen ex-fighters, most of them missionaries, make up the post membership.

Former Navy radio operators and members of the Army signal corps have organized under the auspices of the American Legion in Nebraska and are broadcasting market reports, weather forecasts and weekly concerts to the rapidly growing legion of wireless telephone users.

The aid of Mayor Curley of Boston, Mass., other city officials, the American Legion and the American consul at Sidney, N. S., was required before an ex-service man, "stranded" with his family in Nova Scotia, could be brought back to his Boston home. The Legion paid the bills the man had incurred and the officials unwound the necessary red tape.

The superstition that all army top sergeants are "hard boiled" took wing when an investigator unearthed one ex-top kick in Chicago who is spending his time trying to locate jobs for ex-service men as his part of the American Legion's campaign to find work for world war veterans.

When two desperate criminals broke jail at Springfield, Tenn., and took refuge in the woods, the chief of police called on the American Legion after his own force had failed in its effort to capture his former guests. The ex-service men formed a battle line and the two fugitives were landed back in the calaboose.

Judge Harry S. Keldan, of Detroit, Mich., opening his court for business found that the entire jury panel had been snapped up by jurists. His Honor asked the American Legion to further the cause of justice with a result that a new set of ten talesmen, all jobless ex-service men, was impaneled.

A thorough canvass of the ex-service men of Stuttgart, Ark., failed to bring to light a single unemployed veteran. The employment committee of the American Legion was formed so it dug up two jobs for men already employed which were better than the ones they had.

Mental Processes.

Mental habit is the great enemy of consciously correct action. It is the subconscious mind that gets in the way and causes all the trouble, for it seems to be one function of the subconscious mind to relieve the conscious mind of the burden of direct thinking with regard to many of our routine actions. A mental process of some sort is connected with every physical act, but it is amazing to learn the extent to which these mental processes are conducted by the subconscious mind. A good part of what the average man does every day is done literally without thinking so far as conscious thought is concerned.

Good Advice.

"If you want to succeed, son," said Uncle Eben, "you gotter learn to git jes' as busy an' enthusiastic over regular work as you does over a crap game."

The Hopeless Search.

Every once in a while we read of a man living in poverty falling heir to millions. And every time we read that sort of a news item we scan the horizon of our family sky in the hope of finding some distant relative who might some day do that thing for us, but always with the same result. If there are any millionaires in our family we haven't located them.

HORSE-RADISH DOES NOT REPEL ENEMIES

Pungent Qualities of Plant Do Not Discourage Bugs.

Entomologists Report New Pest in Form of European Webworm Which Also Attacks and Injures Turnips and Cabbage.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Even the pungent and fear-starting qualities of horse-radish are not sufficient to discourage insect enemies. In addition to two other specific and two incidental pests preying upon this plant, entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture report a third specific enemy, known as the European horse-radish webworm and described in a bulletin of that title, Department Bulletin No. 906, just issued.

The caterpillar, which does the most destruction, is of medium size and is also known as the purple backed web-worm, as well as by its regular name. While favoring horse-radish, it is also known to attack turnip and cabbage, and after feeding on the lower surface of the leaves sometimes webs them together near the ground. When abundant, it attacks the stalks even down to the roots. It was first discovered in injurious numbers in Virginia, near the District of Columbia. In 1919, and occasional attacks have been noted in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, and Wisconsin. The moth of the species is rather a bright ochre yellow, with a wing spread of about 1 inch, peculiarly spotted. The eggs are deposited in compact masses containing from half a dozen to a score. They are a little brighter green than the leaf, and each egg is surrounded by an irregular ring of yellow spots.

The webworm may be controlled by arsenicals and by hand-picking on horse-radish, and more readily on other crops by fall and spring plowing and frequent cultivation.

TEST SEEDS BEFORE SOWING

Of Big Advantage to Farmer to Determine Purity and Germination of Various Grains.

Whether the seed is for sale or for his own use on the farm, the farmer will find it to his advantage to test his seed, or have it tested, for purity and germination. In making a purity test, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, it is customary to determine the percentage of pure seed, inert matter such as dirt, chaff, and broken seeds, and foreign seeds, including weed and other kinds. A sample is taken varying in weight from 1 to 100 grams or more (a teaspoon for the clovers and small-seeded grasses, a tablespoon for the grasses, and a considerably larger amount for cereal grains), depending upon the size of the seed being examined. For the germination test usually two lots of 100 seeds each are placed on or between blotting paper, cotton flannel, or such material, and kept in a room or chamber at a temperature of 60 degrees to 80 degrees F. for 3 to 28 days, depending upon the kind of seed being tested.

Samples for purity and germination tests may be sent to the seed laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., or to the nearest branch seed laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. PUSHING ROAD CONSTRUCTION Marked Improvement in Economic Conditions for Highway Building in United States.

Economic conditions for highway building in all parts of the United States have shown marked improvement. Railroad facilities for handling road-building material are much improved. Labor conditions have been such as to aid road building. The increasing number of unemployed men and the depression generally causing more men to be thrown out of employment, have been favorable to contractors in pushing road construction.

Origin of Pew.

The origin of pews for the use of worshippers may be traced back to the time of the Norman nobles. In those days the ordinary church-goer sat on a three-legged stool, while the lords of the land enjoyed a back when at their devotions.

Conclusion Gravely Reached.

James was playing in the back yard. A little dog belonging to a neighbor came into his yard. James tried repeatedly to make friends with the dog, but the dog would only bark and snarl when he came near. Finally the child turned to his mother and said, "I don't think that dog shows the right spirit."

Smoking in Churches.

The churches on Manhattan Island in the very early days were not heated, says Gas Logie. It is related that the "half-dozen" dominies preached with heavy knit or fur caps pulled over their ears, and wearing mittens. Both men and women carried mufts and wore them in church, and the head of the family, when he felt so inclined, smoked his pipe.

Reactions of Turtles to Color.

Marine turtles lay their eggs on dry land, and as soon as the youngsters are hatched they make straight for the sea. Carnegie institute men in the Dry Tortugas sought to find the influence that guided them to the water. When a sheet of red or yellow paper was placed between the baby turtle and the sea, it would turn and go in another direction; but a blue sheet drew him toward it no matter where it was placed. It would seem, then, to be color, rather than instinct or smell, that attracts the youngsters to the water.

Secret of Terror.

A physician tells the New York Times a story to illustrate the fear of disease. A great novelist once went to consult a famous heart specialist about a pain which was causing him grave anxiety. Before he came the doctor took occasion to read one of his stories which dealt with terror of a child in the dark night. The doctor asked the novelist this question: "Why did you omit to describe what it was the child saw?" "Ah," said the other, "that is my craft. The child did not know what it saw. I would not have the reader know, either. The secret of terror is mystery."

The Palm Crab.

The Palm crab, of the Indian ocean, is famous for its strength. He lives in coconut groves, where he digs holes beneath the trees and hides. He is very fond of coconuts. He tears the husk from the nuts, with his powerful claws, and uses this husk to line his bed. He always opens the end of the coconut that contains the soft spot, which may be hammered with his claw until an opening is made. Sometimes he seizes it so firmly with his claw that he can dash the nut against a rock and break it to pieces. But the husk has to be torn away, shred by shred, first.

There are many odd and interesting sights to be seen in Paris. Some of them would surprise the American boy or girl. In the older sections of the city the milkman goes from door to door, playing his "Pan Pipes" (a bunch of reeds tied together) and followed by his flock of goats, ready to be milked. He stops before the door of each of his "regular customers," who are sure of getting fresh milk.

All went on well until our parents began missing things—dishes, etc. A whipping ensued and our romance ended. —Chicago Journal.

Create Home Market By Home Advertising

The best place for a breeder of pure bred live stock to sell his surplus is in his home county. It naturally follows that the biggest returns from advertising his herd will come from the use of the columns of his county newspaper. The old adage: "Distant pastures look greener," has created a distorted vision among breeders and has caused many good men to fail in the business. Ship your fat pork but sell your surplus farm stock to your neighbors, is the route traveled by thousands of successful farmers over the country.

"I know a breeder who in the last year has created a market for his surplus and the demand is so great that he has been unable to supply the wants of his neighbors," said Fred L. Obenchain, Secretary of the National Spotted Poland China Record, and editor of the Spotted Poland China Journal. "For years this breeder depended wholly upon big sales made to breeders in distant parts of the country. Last year he decided on the local market plan. He advertised in his county papers and in weekly and daily papers in adjoining counties. More than 300 farmers in his county, accompanied by their sons, attended his first sale conducted under this plan. His surplus sold before noon and since that time he has had sales almost daily to men who came to his pens to buy pure bred boars and gilts.

"Seed unplanted in poor soil, represents waste, a loss, because they produce nothing. But when planted in good ground, properly tended, become sturdy, growing, producing plants. The recent government census proved a condition of advantage to the breeders of pure bred live stock, which if utilized will make those engaged in the business handsome profits, from their herds. Only about one farm in ten all over the country has pure bred sires. Advertising your herd in your home county will interest more out of every ten of your neighbors. The home county newspaper is read by every one of them.

"Think of it. What would a manufacturer conclude about his medium of advertising if he could find a publication where ninety per cent of the readers were prospective purchasers? He would use that medium without doubt. Why will not the breeder be as wise as his brother manufacturer?

"The National Spotted Poland China Record is urging all breeders to plan a campaign of advertising for their fall sales using newspapers in their own community. The Association has provided a department to assist these breeders to conduct such publicity and we believe that the breeder who follows out this plan will establish a home trade which will grow in volume and profits each year.

BURGLAR WANTED

By MABEL PARSONS

The social climbing Mrs. Hogg was heartbroken. The clever "second story worker" who had visited so many residences of the wealthy that the list might be that of the social register had for some reason forgot to call upon the Hogg. There wasn't another home in Tyreville that contained so many costly furnishings, silver and jewelry—particularly jewelry—and yet Mrs. Hogg was denied a share of the limelight with the aristocracy.

"It ain't as if we ain't got nothing, Phineas," she sobbed, her many diamonds flashing in the morning sun as she poured the coffee. "There's the Joneses, and—"

"Stop right there!" exclaimed Mr. Hogg irritably. "Ain't I done all I can? Ain't I gone all over this house every night and opened the windows? Why, last night I even left the front door half open, and did any burglar come in? Did he, I ask you? No!" he continued, answering his own question.

What else he might have said will never be known, as the butler entered at that moment, and if there was anyone of whom he stood in awe it was Henry the butler.

Success had come to the Hogs late in life, and while Mr. Hogg was inclined to lie back and take things easy, Mrs. Hogg was happy only when she was "among those present." But Phineas was a good sport and under her constant urge he ran her a pretty good second in their chase for social recognition. He affiliated himself with every club and every social affair she suggested, and gave her every blessed thing she wanted—but there; pause a moment.

There is one thing in which he had failed. Mrs. Hogg told him, in that heart touching, sobbing way of hers, that the Powells and Bentons had a family tree, and she didn't have one.

"Never mind, Lucy," he said soothingly, "we got money enough to get a front lawn full of them!" So you see, dear reader, his heart was in the right place.

Away from the eyes of Henry, they kissed in parting at the door.

"Cheer up, dear," said Phineas encouragingly, "we'll be robbed yet." And Lucy smiled faintly in hope and partly because Mrs. Powell, across the street, was looking on. Phineas waved his cane airily as he entered his motor, for the same reasons that Lucy smiled, and he was off.

Arriving at his office he immediately rang for his secretary.

"Mr. Dagget," said he, in his cute little pompous way, "do you know any good 'porch climber'? I mean, are you acquainted with any good crook? I mean—what I—that is—"

Phineas was confused.

Mr. Dagget doesn't know yet what his employer meant, but he was glad to get out of his sight, and for the rest of the day he went about on tip toe with a moist handkerchief in his hand, and a glassy look in his eyes. Now, while the Hogs valued the notoriety of a burglary, let it be known that there was about $30,000 worth of jewelry, which was carefully concealed every night, that they had no intention of losing. That night, while preparing for bed, just at the moment that Mrs. Hogg had put all the jewelry in the case after a careful checking, a loud crash sounded through the house, and while they looked at each other, first in surprise and then in joy, that crash was followed by another.

"A burglar! A robber!" Mr. Hogg shouted enthusiastically, rushing out into the hall, Mrs. Hogg close in his wake.

Snapping on the lights in descent, they arrived upon the scene at the moment the policeman had subdued his prisoner. Subdued doesn't convey the picture at all; he was worse than that, and as he stood there in the light, it is no wonder recognition was delayed. Mr. Hogg was the first to wake up.

"Why, it's Henry!" he exclaimed in amazement.

He was right. He was the butler. It seems that Henry was not a real burglar—nothing like that—quite a duffer at it, in fact. It was simply a manifestation of his interest in his employers. He knew how anxious they were to be robbed, and as it made him nervous to sleep in a house that was open to the world, he had resolved to the end the suspense for both. Steal nothing, you understand; just make a noise to arouse the household. That done, the collected articles on the floor would lead to the belief that the burglar had been frightened away. Thus his employers could hold up their heads among the aristocracy of Tyreville.

As I said before, Phineas was a good sport, and after Henry had whispered this explanation, he swallowed his disappointment and gave the watchful, waiting patrolman a sign indicating that his services would not be needed further.

Mrs. Hogg was the first to enter their chamber, when with a sudden shriek she fell back into Mr. Hogg's arms.

"Oh! Phineas, we've been robbed!" she cried.

Mrs. Hogg was right! The case with its $30,000 contents, forgotten in the excitement, was gone! And, as it subsequently proved, so was Henry!

Taffeta frocks are fashionable, inexpensive, becoming. The same one will do for afternoon and informal evening wear. The model pictured is embellished with embroidered floral motifs.

Cucumbers are best planted in hills about four feet apart each way, specialists at the College of Agriculture say. The soil in these hills should be thoroughly prepared to a depth of from eight to 12 inches and a fork full of well rotted manure placed in each hill and covered with about two inches of soil. From eight to ten seeds usually are placed in each hill. White Spine or Davis Perfect are good varieties.

Planting six to 12 hills of cantaloupes extends the usefulness of the garden. Rocky Ford, Netted Gem and Tip Top are good varieties. They should be planted in hills much the same as cucumbers.

Although much ordinary field corn is used for table purposes, many people say there is no comparison between the former and the true varieties of sweet corn when flavor is considered. Golden Bantam, Adams Early, Country Gentleman and Stowell's Evergreen are said to be good varieties.

Pepper and tomato plants for early fruit should be ready to place in the garden about May 1st. Both are set from 18 to 24 inches apart in rows that are 24 to 30 inches apart.

THEY LET HIM SLEEP

H. T. Strayner, Gainesville, Ga., R. No. 3, was unable to sleep all night without getting up. Foley Kidney Pills tone up weak, sluggish kidneys, rid the body of poisons, give appetite, energy and refreshing sleep.

Wild Onions Causing Trouble For Dairymen

Wild onions again are causing many Kentucky dairymen trouble in the form of tainted milk, according to inquiries being received at the College of Agriculture. The only known way to handle the problem is to take cows out of pastures infested with the weed several hours before milking time. J. J. Hooper, head of the college dairy department says. "We have found that much of the trouble can be eliminated by turning the cows into the infested pastures immediately after they have been milked and then taking them out in three or four hours and placing them in a barn lot or clean pasture until they are milked. It is well also to pour the milk over a cooler as this helps to get rid of some of the onion odor and flavor."

McCreary Bean Acreage to be Increased 300 Per Cent

Following the good results obtained by farmers in this section of the State in growing soybeans, the acreage of this crop is expected to be increased at least three hundred per cent in McCreary county this year. County Agent W. B. Woodward says. Only 30 acres of beans were grown in the county last year, according to Mr. Woodward. Already this year 53 bushels of certified seed have been purchased by farmers in the county, he added.

INSECT ENEMIES OF HOME GARDEN

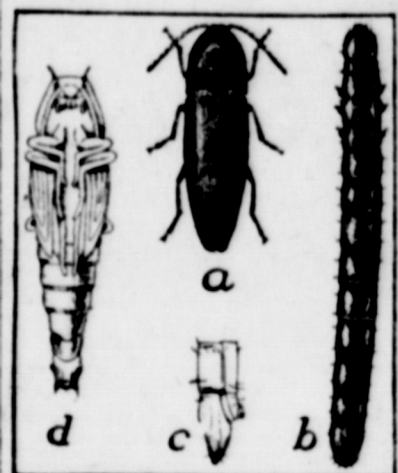

Some of Pests Devour Nearly Every Form of Vegetation and Do Immense Damage.

CUTWORMS INJURE TOMATOES

Arsenic and Paris Green are Deadly Poisons and Must Be Handled With Great Care—Rotation of Crops is Advisable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

From the standpoint of their food plants, injurious insects may be grouped roughly into two classes: First, those which are choice feeders and ordinarily attack only a single crop, or crops of a single class, although when they are extremely abundant they may resort to other crops or weeds. Examples are the asparagus beetle and asparagus miner and the large tomato worms, which confine their feeding to plants of a single family. Second, those known as general feeders—insects which are not particular as to their food plants. Some of these devour nearly every form of vegetable that grows in the garden. These include cutworms and other caterpillars,

The Common Wireworm—A, Adult; B, Larva; C, Last Segment of Same; D, Pupa—All Enlarged.

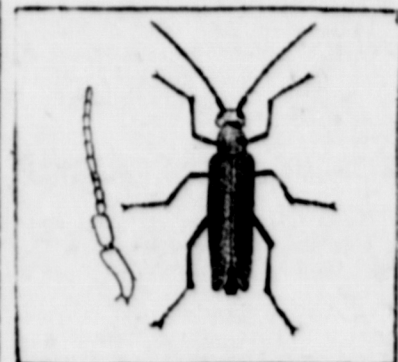

several forms of leaf-beetles and flea-beetles, plant-lice, thrips, blister beetles, and others. When abundant, some of these pests do great damage, sweeping over large areas and ruining entire crops before they can be stopped.

Cutworms.

Tomatoes, sweet potatoes, and other truck plants, particularly when started under glass, are likely to be injured by cutworms when transplanted. These appear in great numbers in the spring and early summer, and the injury is often complete before the gardener notices it. The chief injury is due to the severing of the stems of young plants at about the surface of the ground. One cutworm can destroy many plants in a single night by cutting off more than it can devour.

Control.—The best remedy is what is called "poisoned bait." For use in a small garden take 1 peck of dry bran, add 4 ounces of white arsenic or Paris green, and mix thoroughly with 2 gallons of water in which has been stirred half a gallon of sorghum or other cheap molasses.

For a large garden, use 1 bushel of bran to 1 pound of the arsenical mixed with 8 gallons of water containing half a gallon of molasses. This is enough for treating 4 or 5 acres of cultivated crops.

After the mash has stood for several hours, scatter it in lumps the size of a marble over the garden where the injury is beginning to appear and about the bases of the plants set out. Apply late in the day so as to place the poison about the plants before night, which is the time when cutworms are active. Apply a second or third time if necessary.

It is advisable to keep young children, live stock, and chickens away from this bait.

Clean cultural methods and crop rotation are advisable, as are also deep fall plowing and disking, to prevent recurrences of cutworm attacks. Experienced growers become expert in detecting cutworms and remove them by hand. This often can be done with profit on small patches.

White Grubs.

When new land is used for planting vegetables, especially land that has been in sod or grown up with weeds, white grubs are almost certain to make their appearance, sometimes in large numbers, doing great damage to plants from the time they attain any growth until the fruit is ready for harvest. They feed chiefly on roots and attack especially potatoes, corn, and strawberries, but they are general feeders. White grubs, or "grub worms," are the larvae of young of the brown May or June beetles, with which most persons are familiar. The beetles occur in the North as late as August, while in the South they appear in April or earlier.

Control.—Deep plowing is the most effective remedy for white grubs. Cross plowing and deep disking are sometimes necessary, and the ground should be disturbed often and kept clean of weeds so that the grubs can be eliminated.

Rotation of crops, avoiding the planting of potatoes, beets, sweet corn, and other crops on land which has been for some time in the same crops or in strawberries, grasses, or weeds is advisable. Fertilizers, especially knifed, as a heavy top-dressing are of benefit. Gas lime is valuable. Hogs, if allowed the run of the newly plowed garden, or when the crop is off, will eat large numbers of grubs. Domestic fowls will pick up grubs on newly plowed land. See Farmers' Bulletin 543, "Common White Grubs."

Wireworms.

Wireworms, like white grubs, are common pests in the garden and are also general feeders. They are the offspring of snapping beetles, or "snap-bugs," and are of long oval form.

Their tastes are similar to those of the white grubs. They attack and often do great injury to potatoes and other plants bearing tubers, as well as to carrots, beets, sweet potatoes, and onions.

Control.—The remedies advised for white grubs apply also to wireworms, with due care in selecting land for planting and in fall plowing and crop rotation. Wireworms, however, are much more difficult to control than white grubs.

Blister Beetles.

Blister beetles are common farm pests and are very destructive to vegetables, especially beans, peas, potatoes, and beets. They travel in the same manner as army worms and are sometimes called "army beetles" for this reason. They are hungry feeders and travel frequently in lines, eating everything in their path, chewing up apparently more than they need for food. They are slender in form, somewhat soft bodied, and colored variously. Some species are perfectly black, others are yellow with black stripes, some are of the same color with several light stripes, some are gray, and others are gray spotted with black. Blister beetles are particularly abundant in the Southwest, but occur practically everywhere. Different species appear at different times, usually after the plants have made about one-third growth, and they continue until late in the season.

Control.—Lead arsenate applied at the very outset of attack is the best remedy. In some portions of the Southwest lines of men and boys go through fields driving beetles before them until they reach windrows of hay, straw, or other dry vegetable matter previously prepared along the leeward side of the field. The windrow is then fired and the beetles burned.

A White Grub or May Beetle—E, Larva or Grub; A, Beetle; B, Pupa.

Plant-Lice.

Practically all vegetables, especially cucumbers, cabbages, and peas, suffer considerable damage from attack by small, soft-bodied insects commonly called "lice" or "aphis," but better known as plant-lice. These work for the most part on the lower sides of the leaves, which become curled or otherwise destroyed by loss of their vital juices. They give off a sweet mixture called honeydew, which attracts ants, flies, and other insects. Plant-lice increase with great rapidity by the female giving birth to living young. The different kinds vary in color from light to dark green or nearly black, grayish, brown, yellow, and red. They have comparatively long legs and have feelers attached to the head. Some forms have two pairs of transparent or clear wings. They feed by sucking juices of the plants through a beak. Familiar examples are the melon aphis, pea aphis, and cabbage plant-lice.

Control.—If the plants are grown under glass, plant-lice may be killed by fumigation with a nicotine preparation. The form suitable for this work is paper soaked in nicotine which when lighted causes a smudge. Sprinkling plants with fine tobacco dust is of some value, especially if applied early in the morning when the dew is on.

SOY BEAN IN CROP ROTATION

Cash Value of Seed is Sufficient to Warrant Growing Beans as One of Main Crops.

The soy bean may be combined advantageously in many systems of crop rotation. The United States Department of Agriculture says it is especially adapted to short rotations, taking either an entire season or part of a season following some grain crop. The cash value of the seed is sufficient to encourage growing the beans as one of the main crops. When the whole season is thus devoted to soy beans, they take any place in a rotation system where corn can be used.

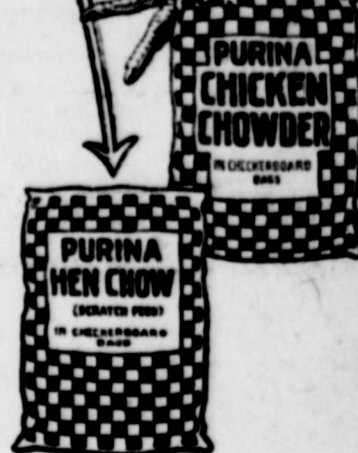

Yolks Whites Eggs

Are You Feeding Enough Whites?

About one out of ten poultry raisers feeds a ration properly balanced for egg production. The common mistake is feeding too much yolk-making material and failing to feed for whites. Grains alone make lots of yolks but few whites.

Purina Chows Balance

Purina Chicken Chowder and Purina Hen Chow, fed in equal parts by weight, balance the whites and yolks by supplying an equal number of each. They make hens lay to the limit of their capacity. Purina Chows save time and trouble—no guess work, no trouble and uncertainty of mixing. Feed both Chows and keep the egg basket full.

Pastures Are Parched Annually In Kentucky

Kentucky has a drouth practically every year, according to livestock men at the College of Agriculture here. In some seasons, the lack of rainfall is felt for a few weeks only while in other years, it continues for months. In practically all cases, the lack of rain during the summer is sufficient to parch pastures in the State, the most serious damage usually coming in August, it is said. Dairymen suffer most heavily from the dry seasons, the parched pastures resulting in decreased milk and butterfat production, the livestock men say.

By means of a number of experiments which have been conducted, the college has found that Sudan grass makes a good crop to furnish green feed for dairy cows during the summer drouths, according to J. J. Hooper, head of the dairy department. Six acres of it will be seeded this spring, he said. From 20 to 30 pounds of seed an acre will be broadcasted in May or early June, the chief requirement being a well prepared seed bed of warm soil. The seed also may be drilled.

On the college farm, Sudan grass seeded in May has yielded as much as five tons of green feed an acre in early August while a second cutting is possible about the middle of September. The grass is cut with a mower and hauled to the cows, each animal receiving about 5 pounds of green grass daily.

Green corn also can be used for cow feed during the drouth seasons but a heavier yield of green feed will be secured at less cost and labor from the use of Sudan grass, the dairymen say.

Legumes Gain Favor Among Larue Farmers

Legume crops are coming to occupy a more important place in the crop rotation of Laure County farmers, County Agent J. W. Jones says. In one community more than 208 acres of sweet clover already have been added and plans are under way for seeding 30 acres of alfalfa. The community also will have more than 75 acres of soybeans and cowpeas for hay this summer, Mr. Jones added.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN EXTRAVAGANT?

To allow a child to become extravagant, no matter how well-off the parents may be, is to seriously interfere with the development of its character.

Extravagance breeds idleness and a lack of appreciation of values. A pampered and over-indulged child can never really experience those joys and pleasures that are the birthright of childhood.

Columbia Dry Batteries are universally used because—

They cost so little, are so easy to obtain, are so powerful, and last so long. That's why they are used everywhere for every battery need. It's why dealers all around you carry Columbias to meet your demands—electricians, hardware stores, general stores, auto supply shops, garages, implement dealers.

For doorbells, buzzers, heat regulators, alarms, etc.; for gas engine and tractor ignition; for quick starting ignition on non-self-starting Fords; for every purpose, always—insist upon Columbia.

Columbia Dry Batteries
—they last longer

The world's most famous dry battery. Used where group of individual cells is needed. Famous for Spring Clip Binding. Fits at no extra charge. Columbia Dry Batteries work better and last longer—
—for bell and buzzers
—for thermometers
—for gas engines
—for ignition on the Ford while starting
—for dry battery lighting in closet, cellar, garage, barn, etc.

When my young knight came over to see my brothers I showed him my new shoes. He looked them over, then said to my brother, "Are they yours? They are big enough for an elephant." Thus ended my first love affair.—Exchange.

Disagree on Derivation.
Some rather far-fetched explanations are being given as to the derivation of the English term "so long!" uttered when parting. The "Dictionary of Passing English of the Victorian Era" says it is a corruption of the Jewish word "selah," used in the Whitechapel district of London as a form of goodbye. Equally curious is the statement that it may be a form of "salaam," the eastern salutation of peace.

Moths and Mimicry.

In some large quarries in Argentina it has been observed that a certain species of night-flying moths frequents these places during the day to rest. The moths lie flat against the rocks, which they match perfectly in color, and are practically invisible. This instance is peculiar by reason of the fact that these quarries contain a colored stone which is unknown elsewhere, and the further fact that it is less than a hundred years since the quarries were opened.—Scientific American.

TICK ERADICATION IN SOUTH

Work Has Progressed Satisfactorily in Georgia Where There Has Been Co-Operation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Tick eradication has progressed so satisfactorily in Georgia that probably fifteen or more counties will soon be released from federal quarantine, according to a report just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. During June, 814,585 dippings of cattle were officially supervised in the state, and in the counties expected to be released from quarantine only 300 tick-infested herds were found.

With the exception of one county, Taylor, there has been hearty co-operation in carrying on the tick-eradication work. The commissioners' court of Taylor county declined to co-operate with the state for the enforcement of dipping and quarantine regulations, and has refused to complete the work of tick eradication in herds, on premises and in localities held under local quarantine at the time the federal quarantine was revoked in December, 1920. For this reason it has been necessary to re-quarantine Taylor county.

Tick-Infested Cattle.

There is in effect in Georgia a state regulation which provides that all cattle going through the dipping vat shall be marked with paint at each dipping. This regulation has been of great assistance in facilitating tick-eradication work. Range riders, whose duty it is to pick up any cattle not marked with paint, are employed in each county. Undipped cattle are taken to the dipping vat and dipped at the expense of the owner, or if the owner cannot be found, they are treated as strays and sold for the expenses incurred in their gathering and dipping. To this system, the Department of Agriculture attributes the satisfactory results in reducing the state of ticks. In fact, it is said there are fewer undipped cattle in Georgia, in counties in which tick eradication is being carried on, than in any other state.

The importance of freeing the South of ticks is emphasized by the increase in the number of markets which are being closed to ticky cattle. Following a resolution recently passed by the Maryland state board of agriculture, prohibiting the shipment of ticky cattle into the state for any purpose, the Department of Agriculture has issued a notice to bureau of animal industry inspectors to the effect that shipments of cattle from quarantined areas cannot be received at the Union stock yards, Baltimore, Md.; the J. A. Whitefield Co., Frederick, Md.; the Benning Union stock yards, District of Columbia, and the Carolina Packing Co., Wilmington, N. C.

The world is so full of folks that you have got to dig to excel. There's not much hope for the chap that wants to rest on every other corner. There's too much to do to take the rest cure before you really need it. It's a habit that puts petticoats where pants ought to be. If you're ever going to get up in the world, you'll have to reach the top by "keeping on going."—Grit.

Worry a Factor in Disease.
It is probably true that more people are crippled or weakened by the fear of disease than by the disease itself. In the opinion of the medical correspondent of the London Times, worry is a grave factor in disease. The answer is, of course, don't fear disease and don't worry. For if one does not fear disease and does not worry, he stands a far better chance of avoiding and overcoming ailments than if he does both those useless and debilitating things.

Pays to Keep on Going.
Life's like a race. To win you must keep on going. The fellow who looks around to see what the grandstand thinks, is going to slow up enough to give him a chance to see others go by. It's the feeling that inspires cuss words. While the race is often to the swift it's just as often to the fellow who just keeps on going. He's bound to win who isn't affected by the changes of the weather or regulated by the smiles of friends. You've a work to do, keep going.

Stallions In Service 1922 All Peavine 4092

ALL PEAVINE 4092 will make the season of 1922 at my barn on Lexington pike, three miles from Danville, Ky., at $20.00 to insure a living foal.

This National Show Horse has made reputation for himself, both in the show ring and as a sire.

Sired by REX PEAVINE 1796, a champion show horse and an unequalled champion sire.

From him we have such champions as Edna May, Golden Glow, Jack Straw, Queen O' the May, Star Peavine, and many others.

By Rex McDonald—Daisy 2nd, by Peavine 85.

GRAND SIRE REX McDONALD 833, the undisputed champion show horse and sire.

First Dam Lucy Wells 6404, by Peavine 85. A great brood mare by the world's greatest brood mare sire Peavine. His daughters have produced such champions as Lou Chief, Cleopatra, the Frenchman, Edna May, Barthenia McChord, and dozens of others.

A mare by All Peavine 4092, is a sure foundation.

Second Dam, daughter of Harris Denmark.

Third Dam, daughter of John Osely.

If you want to breed to a stallion whose produce commands the highest market prices, breed to All Peavine 4092. The price for which his colts have sold are as open as a book. They being sold at public auctions along with other colts—the Peavines have topped the market.

Breeding saddle horses of the highest type is no longer guess work (like begets like) and takes champions to produce champions. Here you have them all in this pedigree, Rex McDonald, Rex Peavine and a double infusion of the champion brood mare sire Peavine (All Peavine 4092) will breed true to his family inheritance of championship blood.

All Peavine 4092 is 15½ hands high and weighs 1,200 pounds.

Julian Peavine

JULIAN PEAVINE is a chestnut sorrel with a beautiful silvery flaxen mane and tail, stands 15½ hands high; has plenty of style and finish. If you are looking for something real fancy to breed to, don't fail to see him.

JULIAN PEAVINE will make the season of 1922 at above place at $10.00 to insure a living foal.

Season becomes due when mare is traded or parted with or bred to other stock. Most careful attention of all stock sent to my care, but not responsible should accidents occur.

A lien retained on colts till season is paid.

Pasture for mares from a distance furnished at reasonable rates, but same must be paid before stock is removed.

LIGHT-SIX

Five-passenger, 40-horsepower
112-inch wheelbase
Cord Tire Standard Equipment

THE Studebaker LIGHT-SIX will appeal to every buyer who wants a low-priced car that will be satisfactory in performance, appearance, comfort and endurance.

And in addition to its recognized superiority in these essentials, the LIGHT-SIX carries refinements found only on more expensive cars.

The LIGHT-SIX is equipped with cowl ventilator operated from the instrument board; cowl parking lights; inside and outside door handles and large rectangular plate-glass window in rear curtain. A thief-proof transmission lock, which reduces the rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20 per cent, and cord tires are also standard equipment.

Long, semi-elliptic springs (50-inch in rear; 36-inch in front) and soft, genuine leather upholstered cushions, nine inches deep, provide unusual comfort. Its 40-horsepower motor delivers ample power for the hard pull. And vibration is practically eliminated by Studebaker's method of machining the crankshaft and connecting rods.

The intrinsic value of the LIGHT-SIX is unmatched at anywhere near the price because Studebaker does not skimp on materials or workmanship but uses the best. It is built complete in the most modern and complete automobile plant in the world, making possible its low price of $1045, f. o. b. factory.

Studebaker has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices for nearly three-quarters of a century and is the largest builder of six-cylinder cars in the world.

Touring, $1045; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1045; Coupe-Roadster, $1375; Sedan, $1750. All prices f. o. b. factory.

DID YOU EVER STOP AND THINK, FRIENDS,
WHAT A GRAND THING THE LANCASTER
SPIRIT IS? How contagious it is and how proud we are of our city? Do you realize if we would back up this Pride by our Loyalty that we could be just twice as proud when we got through? AND THAT IS WHAT WE SHOULD ALL DO.

If Jack, the little scamp, has worn out those shoes you bought him we are going to suggest that you buy your next pair in Lancaster. If you are contemplating building or improving, SECURE YOUR MATERIALS in Lancaster AND CONTRACT LANCASTER LABOR. If you are not confining all your purchases to this city, START TODAY. Try this awhile and see how good it feels to look yourself in the glass each morning and be able to say, "Howdy, Old Booster!"

To tell you the truth, friends, if you could buy merchandise at 50c on the dollar away from Lancaster you still cannot afford—either as a property owner or as a working person—to REMOVE THAT 50c FROM THE COMMUNITY.

When you do, you are knocking the props from under your own property values, undermining the financial structure that forms our industrial existence and thus remove from the working homes of our community JUST THAT MUCH SUSTENANCE, COMFORT AND HAPPINESS.

WE WANT TO BURN THIS IN DEEP. You cannot measure so-called money saving against the tearing-down process that involves the community from whence it comes. THEREFORE KEEP YOUR MONEY AT HOME BY SPENDING IT AT HOME.

And to make times good, property values high and employment for all—let normal business transactions prevail without doubts or misgivings. BUY WHAT YOU NEED FREELY. Money put in circulation comes back in wages, crop receipts, investments and in PROSPERITY.

HOARDING DOLLARS IS A GAME WE SHOULD ALL DISCOURAGE. Spending them foolishly is another matter. But purchasing the requirements of living, indulging in reasonable amusement and sane investments SPELLS PROGRESS AND FINANCIAL SUCCESS FOR ALL. "Setting Tight" is a pastime of the Doubter who contributes nothing to the prosperous conditions which can be made to always prevail.

Daily Thought.
Men are but children of a large growth.—Deyden.
Cuba Size of Pennsylvania.
The area of Cuba is about equal to that of the state of Pennsylvania.
Sometimes.
As a husband the handy man has it all over the handsome man.—Boston Transcript.
Absence Defined.
Absence is like a wind which fans a configuration but which extinguishes a candle.—M. Taine.
Suggests Trouble.
Adv.—Open for position, an excellent janitor that keeps you in hot water all the time.—Boston Transcript.
Mending the Grammar.
When money talks we don't care whether it says "You and I" or "You and me" so long as it connects us up.
Not Flattering.
I am unused to children and besides knowing no lullaby songs I have no voice to carry a tune. I offered to care for a neighbor's child one afternoon. The child grew tired and asked me to rock her and sing. I began bravely but she stopped me and said: "You don't need to sing, I dess. Your songs make me wider awake."—Exchange.
On State Occasions.
One day we had the minister for dinner. I had just finished the blessing when my son turned to the minister and said, "Daddy prays every time you eat here."—Chicago Tribune.
Swallowed Each Other.
A perfectly formed hard-shell crab about the size of the end of a person's thumb was found in an oyster shell. The crab had evidently been swallowed by the oyster, but presumably it proved too much for the oyster, as there was no oyster in the shell when it was opened.
Normandy Seaweed.
The Normandy farms near the coast are rich and fertile. They are well filled and fed with the seaweed that is cast up on the shore. Great carts, drawn by sturdy Normandy horses, pass and repass with their loads of seaweed, which makes a splendid dressing for the farms.
Washington's Popularity.
It would have surprised General Washington, had he known how future generations were to prize even his smallest possession. A china plate which he used, and which was later in the collection of President Andrew Jackson, recently sold for $910 at an auction in New York city.
About Rabbits.
California produces the finest fur-bearing rabbits in the world. Texas is a close second; Utah and Oklahoma are great producing states. The rabbit thrives upon alfalfa hay and barley. All of these may be had in California 365 days in the year. The ermine rabbit, a close rival of the little white-furred weasel, has been gained by crossing the Russian white rabbit, which has the color, with the Himalaya rabbit, which has the soft under fur and again with the Angora rabbit, which has the requisite length of coat.
The Streets of France.
Travelers in France often remark on the neatness and cleanliness of its streets, and before long they discover how they become so. Any fine morning one may see women and children sweeping the street busily, with brooms made of bunches of twigs bound together. Every speck of dirt is banished from the cobblestones, and that is why it is no hardship to walk in the streets, for in many French towns there are no sidewalks. It is the natural instinct for cleanliness that makes these women sweep the streets, for no law demands that they shall do it.

Daily Needle Consumption.
The world uses up an average of 3,000,000 needles a day.
Overworking a Hobby.
Riding a hobby is all right, but some fellows seem to forget that the best of horses must have a rest now and then.
Friends Can Do Much Harm.
If a cause be good, the most violent attack of its enemies will not injure it so much as an injudicious defense of it by its friends.—Colton.
In the Vermont Legislature.
In Vermont the state senate is composed of thirty members, one from each county, and the lower house is made up of one man from each township in the state.
Keep Out Heat as Well as Cold.
The Turkish peasants in Asia Minor believe in keeping out the heat as well as the cold, and it is not uncommon to see in many parts of the country people wearing huge coats in the midst of summer, with the thermometer standing at 100 degrees.
Prayer Book Once "King's Primer."
The English "Book of Common Prayer" was originally called the "King's Primer." It was published in 1546 by command of Henry VIII. Twice revised in the reign of Edward VI, and again in the reigns of Elizabeth and James I. It was ultimately brought to its present form.
Rather Striking.
"But, Bertha, how did you make the acquaintance of your second husband?" "It was quite romantic. I was out walking with my first, when my second came along in an automobile and ran him down. That was the beginning of our friendship."—Bartlesville (Okla.) Enterprise.
Broadcloth.
A mixture of one ounce of fine pipe clay, twelve drops of alcohol and turpentine each is an excellent medium for removing stains from broadcloth. In cleaning, moisten only a small part of the material at a time, rub on the spot, let it remain until dry and then rub it off with a woolen cloth.
Time Limit Set.
Because my nephew had been reminded to remove his rubbers before coming into the house and rather urged to depend more on soap and water and less on the towel he remarked, "Well, auntie, I may stand this house of rules till Saturday, but I'm going home then."—Chicago Tribune.

Mr. H. G. Poynter and children, of Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Will Lane and children, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Kirtz and children and Mrs. Lular Dailey, of Danville, spent a most enjoyable day Easter with Mr. and Mrs. Alford Poynter.

The May Queen of Hamilton College was voted on Friday and the results will be announced later. Miss Alice Karr, dean of the college, named a number of students as eligible for election and Miss Thelma Hamilton, of this city, was in the list.

Miss Ella Kidd was called to Lancaster by the illness and death of her aunt, Miss Margaret Arnett, whose funeral was held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at the residence of Mr. H. F. Speaks in Lancaster. The burial was in the family lot in the Lexington cemetery at one o'clock.—Lexington Herald.

Mrs. J. L. Thomas entertained at her home Sunday a few relatives and friends in honor of Mr. Thomas' 44th birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John McKee, of Danville, Mrs. Tevis Daily, and daughter, Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Comley and Miss Alice Miller, of Nicholasville, Misses Elsie and Grace Fothergill, Mr. Hubert Fothergill, Mr. Oscar Dailey, Mr. Edward Clemmons and Mr. Charley Thomas and daughter, Louise, of Lexington.

The election of W. J. Craig, of the Western Kentucky State Normal, of Bowling Green, as president of the Kentucky Educational Association is of personal interest in Lancaster in that Mr. Craig married Miss Ethel Grant, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Grant of Danville, who is well remembered here as a frequent visitor to the homes of her uncles, Messrs. W. A. Johnson, Edgar and N. B. Price. Mr. Craig's "home" appreciation is such that the newspaper reports say, he was carried into office by a solid block of supporters from his institution. Mr. Craig was at one time the principal of the Stanford High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Russell, of Louisville, were guests last Monday of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Elmore.

Mrs. Louis Landram, Mr. Pete Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Sutton were visitors in Lexington Friday.

Emmet Lackey, another Lancaster boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lackey, of this city, who has been in the Y. M. C. A. work in Detroit as assistant secretary, has been promoted to Field Secretary at a salary of $2,000 a year.

Friends will be delighted to know of the rapid rise in the radio world, of John Lackey, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lackey, formerly of this city, but now living in Harland, Ky. John after finishing a course in radio, has been appointed a radio operator on one of the Atlantic's large steamers and has assumed his work.

One of the most charming events during this season was the birthday party given by Lucy Kellie Walker in honor of her seventh birthday at her home on Richmond street. Ten of her little friends were present. At 4:30 in the afternoon they went to the Puritan and refreshments were served. The table was beautifully decorated with white roses and pink carnations. The scheme of colors were carried out in pink and white. They returned to her home and played many games. Everyone present enjoyed the afternoon.

At the weekly business meeting of the Woman's Club Thursday afternoon the following officers were elected for the 1922-23 term: Mrs. E. B. Bourland, president; Miss Helen Gill, vice president; Mrs. Sam Haselden was re-elected treasurer and Mrs. G. A. Abbott, secretary. After the business session, Mrs. Dave Thomas made a splendid talk on "Sacred Art." This program brings to a close the Woman's Club for the year. Mrs. J. E. Stormes, District Governor, and Mrs. R. E. McRoberts will attend the meeting of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs at Hopkinsville May 23rd. A motion was made that each member of the club will be considered a member of the club for the next year without they notify the secretary that they no longer care to be a member. There were about fifteen members present.

Coach Whittaker's Men Win Another Game

Captain Henry Having A Most Successful Season

(By Billy Miller.)

Captain Henry and his string of base ball warriors journeyed to Harrodsburg Friday evening and succeeded in defeating the Mercer county lads by the score of 9 to 3. This game was said by many of the local fans as well as the Harrodsburg people that it was by far one of the fastest and best ball games that has ever been played on Harrodsburg diamond. The game was almost errorless as only three errors were made by both sides and the ball was not allowed to touch the ground. The South paw that was on the mound for the Harrodsburg nine was an easy mark for the locals and they pounded him to all corners of the lot. Crutchfield for the local nine not only played his usual good game at first but was also on the job when it came to using the stick as he pounded out a wonderful hit that looked good for a homer. The good consistent player that he is did not rush the ball and took up his bed on third.

Cox and Bratton were the batteries for Captain Henry's nine, and Bratton showed up well on the mound, fanning the first eight men that faced him, while his faithful catcher talked to him and made him play ball throughout the game. Crutchfield on first, Gaines and Anderson second, Gastineau, Short; Henry (Capt.), third, while Estes, Daniels and Anderson looked well after the field.

With such a line up as the above the one that swamped Harrodsburg Coach Whittaker is not afraid to tackle any High School team in Central Kentucky.

"Babe" Lawson, who also accompanied the team umpired the game in his usual good manner and was perfectly fair to both sides.

Rheumatism at 60

How glorious you will feel, mother, when your rheumatism is all gone. Let S. S. S. do it. It will build you up, too!

S. S. S. Thoroughly Rids the Body of Rheumatism Impurities.

Somebody's mother is suffering tonight. The scourge of rheumatism has wrecked her body; limping and suffering, bent forward, she sees but the common ground, but her aged heart still belongs to the stars. Does anybody care? S. S. S. is one of the greatest blood-purifiers known, and it helps build more blood cells. Its medicinal ingredients are purely vegetable. It never disarranges the stomach. It is, in fact, a splendid tonic, a blood maker, a blood enricher. It banishes rheumatism from joints, muscles and the entire body. It builds firm flesh. It is what somebody's mother needs tonight. Mother, if you can not go out to get a bottle of S. S. S. yourself, surely somebody in your family will. Somebody get a bottle of S. S. S. now! Let somebody's mother begin to feel joyful again tonight. Maybe, maybe it's your mother! S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

"S. S. S. is for sale at McRoberts Drug Store."

Farm And Home News From Over Kentucky

Pure bred White Wyandottes are continuing to replace scrub and mongrel hens on Henderson county farms according to County Agent D. W. Martin. More than 750 settings of hatching eggs have been distributed this spring to farmers who wish to get a start with the pure breeds. The work is in line with the poultry standardization campaign being conducted over the State by the College of Agriculture extension division.

As a class gift, seniors at the Taylor county high school have completed plans to plant 35 shade trees on the 13 acres of ground surrounding the new 60,000 school building, according to County Agent J. L. Miller.

In line with their plans to improve the dairy herds of that section of the State, members of the Henderson county farmers' organization who are co-operating with County Agent D. W. Martin and the College of Agriculture have made the organization of a co-operative pure bred sire association one of their major projects for development during the coming year.

Approximately 1,500 settings of pure bred hatching eggs have been distributed this spring to Graves county farmers who are co-operating with County Agent B. H. Mitchell and the College of Agriculture in standardizing the farm poultry flocks of that county.

In order to encourage the greatest production of corn on the smallest acreage, Leslie county farmers have organized a corn club, each member of which will give two bushels of grain to the farmer who produces the greatest yield of corn on an acre, according to County Agent T. L. Britton.

HIS LESSON

By MOLLIE MATHER

The young woman drew her pony up suddenly and sat in the saddle looking down on a huddled form in the roadway. "Mercy!" she exclaimed and jumped to the ground.

The huddled form was that of a girl younger than herself, a girl with grief-stricken face buried in her outstretched arms. Delphine raised her face to gaze into it, and shook the girl lightly.

"My dear," she chided, "what a reckless thing to do; lying here where an automobile might crush you at any moment. What ever are you thinking of?"

"I don't care if one does crush me," the girl cried wildly. "I wish it would. I don't want to live. I can't bear this any longer."

"Well," said Delphine impatiently—"well!"

She fastened her pony to a tree; then she came back to the girl. "Be sensible," ordered Delphine, "come over here and tell me all about it."

When the girl came obediently, Delphine pillowed the tear-stained face against her own soft shoulder.

"Of course," matter-of-factly, "the cause of your sorrow is a man. It usually is, I am told, when they want to die. And what is your name, dear silly child, and where do you live?"

"I am Rosy," the girl answered sobbingly. "everyone knows me as Rosy. My father is a farmer, and I bring milk mornings to the big white house where you are boarding. He used to board there, too, before he went to what he calls his 'lodge' in the woods. I first met him when I carried milk there one evening, and Mr. King walked home with me because it was growing dark and he thought I'd be timid. As we walked I told him about my school in the winter, and how I love to teach, and he told me about the great city where he came from, and how wonderful and beautiful life is there, and of the studio where he makes his drawings. And by and by, after I grew to know him very much better, he told how lonely he was in the big empty rooms, with no wife to encourage, or greet him and—"

Rosy paused breathlessly, her words had rushed on, a torrent of relief in the telling.

Delphine sighed and patted the cradled head.

"I know," she finished the story, "then he told you how he would love to take you there as his wife."

Rosy's eyes were wondering.

"Why—how did you know?" she asked.

"He said he would teach me to love him," she went on, "and he did. I still love him, that's the trouble, there never will be any happiness in the world for me any more; you see—the words were hard to say. 'It was all a mistake. He does not care, after all. He confessed this to me when I hinted him out at his lodge, and asked him; he had stayed away so long.'"

Rosy's tears burst out afresh.

"He smiled," she sobbed. "Smiled in such a mocking hurting way, when he told me to forget him."

Delphine held the girl close.

"That," she remarked emphatically, "is exactly what I would do."

And when she left Rosy later in the afternoon at the farmhouse door, the girl smiled back at her, vaguely comforted. The charming winsome lady had promised to see her again—and often.

Barris King was fishing in a stream—near his own cozy camp when, on a sunny morning, a veritable nymph of a maid greeted him between parted foliage.

"Please," asked Delphine, "may I share your retreat. I am not at all abashed by the fact that we have not met, nor even that you may think me a forward creature."

If a man stared in surprise, he corrected that rudeness at once by a welcoming smile.

"I am more than delighted by the invasion," he said calmly, "fortune does not often, so favor me."

Delphine laughed; her soft involuntary laughter was as pleasing as her face.

"Perhaps you were feeling as bored with the silence of nature as I," she said.

The days following passed swiftly, delightfully, for Barris King. It was a joy to hear Delphine's ingenious praise of his drawings.

So, at last, in all earnestness and loving longing, Barris King asked Delphine Bonnie to be his wife. And Delphine, resting her head against the very tree where not long ago, she had comforted Rosy—looked up at her wooer through long curling lashes. Then she smiled, a hurting mocking smile; it was such as he might have given to the poor girl who loved him.

"Why silly!" laughed Delphine. "I have only been whiling away a lonely hour, as you may have done perhaps, when tired of your painting. Our Rosy chanced to amuse you. Of course my identity here has been kept secret. I'm resting up, getting new strength in country seclusion. You see, I happen to be a coming movie star. One, not quite arrived. But you will, no doubt, see my pictured self often, later, for my play's about ready. And when you do see my face on the screen," added Delphine cheerfully, "I hope it may cause you a little saddened memory. Of course, I know that it won't be much of a one, real heartaches can come only to real hearts," like Rosy's.

A HARD SCHOOL

By MARY LOUISE BUZZELL

Jerry, mending his lobster pots on the beach, scowled as he saw Ellen and "that fellow" Templeton hurrying down to the inlet where the young man's boat lay; for Templeton, while ostensibly taking a much-needed rest, was paying assiduous court to the girl whom Jerry had looked upon as his future wife ever since they had played together as children.

Jerry turned his back on the approaching couple, but when they had passed he gave his rival a surreptitious glance—noting the white silk shirt, the immaculate white trousers and the wrist watch. Turning suddenly, Ellen caught his criticizing eye, laughed, and called back:

"Better forget your lobster pots today, Jerry, and bring Sarah over to the island and picnic with us!" to which her escort added a languid, "Yes, dear boy, get your Sarah and come!"

"Thanks!" snapped Jerry. "I have no 'Sarah'—and I've something to do besides picnicking and—reading poetry!" seeing the book Templeton carried.

Receiving no answer save a tolerant shrug from his rival, he sullenly resumed his work, but a moment later, after a troubled look at the sky, he strode after the picnickers, and as Templeton pushed off the wharf, he gave him a brusque:

"Better keep an eye on the nor'wester, Templeton, those clouds mean wind; and I'd come in with the tide, it's tough rowing against it."

Templeton raised his brows, then vouchsafed a supercilious: "Ah! Thanks awfully, my good man, but have no fears, I've handled a boat several times before today!" with an emphasis on the "several" that made Jerry long to pitch him into the water; but instead, with a smothered "Humph!" he swung up the beach to the cottage he shared with his crippled grandfather. The old man seeing Jerry he stopped smoking to mutter fretfully:

"If that chap had a sense of a sculpin, he'd keep off in the water with such clouds abroad!" waving his pipe skyward; then added with a senile chuckle: "I shouldn't wonder if he found it true that 'experience is a hard school, but fools will learn from no other,' afore he gets home!"

"Very likely, but if anything happens to Ellen through his ignorance, I'll—I'll—"

"You ain't to let that whippersnapper grab your girl away right from under your nose?" queried the old man, trisicily.

"Why, no!" blazed Jerry, "but he flatters her till she—"

"Doesn't know any more'n she oughter!" interrupted his grandfather. "All the same, I'd kinder row out toward the island—you see what's coming?" Jerry nodded and sat down.

The weather grew more threatening every minute; but he waited till the tide turned, sending choppy waves inshore. Then, unable to bear the suspense, he ran down to his dory, thrust the oars into the oarlocks and pushed off into the foaming waters.

Something smashed into the dory, scraped by and was gone. Twisting around, he strained his eyes to make out the towing thing astern—it was Templeton's empty boat being driven shoreward!

His breath came in horrified gasps as he sensed the awful significance of the sight; then wild rebellion fired his soul as he thought of Ellen being dashed and buffeted into nothingness by the cruel waters. It must not—should not be! He sent a stentorian shout toward the island; it came back in a mocking echo.

Again and again he called her name, with a wild hope that somehow, in some miraculous manner, she had escaped death. Suddenly the island loomed before him—a black blot against the sky. With a mighty effort, he sent his spent voice shoreward and listened. His heart almost stopped beating for very joy, for across the lashing waters a faint ball came to him out of the darkness. It was Ellen's voice!

With a superhuman effort, his strained and swollen muscles heaved the dory; two sodden figures were lifted over its high side to safety, and in silence, save for murmured "Thank Heaven!"—Jerry backed away, turned his boat toward home, and the racing tide did the rest.

Giving no heed to the babbling explanations of the modified Templeton, he lifted the shivering girl out and carried her up the beach to her home, but before reaching her door he asked:

"By what fool stunt did Templeton lose his boat?"

"He tied it to a rock with a silly little rope, which sawed in two in no time after it came on to blow, though even then he might have got it if he hadn't been afraid of getting wet!" answered the girl, angrily.

"But the salt water would have ruined his wrist watch," said Jerry, dryly, which remark brought an hysterical giggle from the girl in his arms. But the next moment she pulled his head down, and with her arms tight around his neck, whispered:

"Jerry, I simply detest a wrist watch on a man; and I just adore the smell of lobsters. Come over tomorrow, dear!"

And with a hug that left her breathless, Jerry whispered a jubilant: "You bet, honey!"

TYPICAL COAT STYLE

Out of Russia came the inspiration for this spirited coat, typical of the spring modes. It is made of a novelty mixture and its trimming is something quite new. Note that its lines are straight, its sleeves roomy and loose, its patch pockets large, its belt wide, with an original fastening, and be assured that it embodies the high points in the new styles.

Origin of Stilton Cheese.

Stilton cheese was first made in the eighteenth century by a woman called Pawley, who lived at Stilton, on the road from London to York. She sold the cheese to a local inn-keeper, and his lunch-room guests spread its merits.

Melba Couldn't Do It.

The latest Melba yarn has it that the song-bird turned up unexpectedly at a charity glee-club, and the hon. organizer in doing the amiable nearly fell over herself. "Everyone wants to hear you sing badly," she bubbled. "Then they won't," said the dame, "because I can't."

Keep Your Health!

CLEAN UP.

(By Dr. R. H. Bishop.)

I found some figures recently which proved about one-third of the deaths of persons under 40 are caused by diseases contracted from filth.

This seems to leave no doubt that an annual spring clean-up campaign is of vital importance to every community of any size. The degree of immunity during the summer months will be influenced by thoroughness or lack of it in the community house-cleaning.

A city or community-wide clean-up now may head off an epidemic of infantile paralysis this summer.

The battle against this disease is one conducted for the most part in the dark. Medical men do not know exactly how it is spread.

They do know, however, that the disease has been made less perilous and extensive in the large cities where clean-up campaigns have become a regular annual public health measure. Disease-breeding places are at this time wiped out of existence.

Disease-producing germs thrive best in warmth, dampness and darkness. The places furnishing these conditions should be sought out and thoroughly cleaned.

Flies are without doubt one of the greatest spreaders of communicable diseases. They transport germs from person to person. A fly killed in April is equivalent to millions killed in August or September.

Mosquitoes also spread diseases and these pests find ideal breeding places among empty cans, bottles, and broken crockery partly filled with water.

COY

Many days shall pass but we can't forget the pleasant day we spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hardin near Coy. The following guests for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor and Mrs. Green Harrison and family, Ezra Whittaker and Jack Merrat, of Richmond, Annie Mae and Hansford Speake, of Mt. Hebron, Bertha and Phoebe McQuerry, Venin, Lawrence and Sallie Sparks, Mossie Hicks, of Coy, John Rhorer, of Wilmore, Lillian Kent, of Poor Ridge. The oldest present was Mrs. Elizabeth Matthews, age 79, having been an invalid for eleven years, but declared she spent a nice day.

MORE SHRUBS

Being Used For Ground Improvement

Interest among Kentucky farmers as well as owners of city property in the beautifying of their home grounds by means of planting shrubs has been increasing steadily during the past few years, according to N. R. Elliott, of the College of Agriculture. Three varieties of shrubs have been found to be especially good for individual plantings while seven others have predominated in hedge and screen plantings.

Dogwood, one of the three varieties for individual specimens, grows 15 to 20 feet high and has white or red flowers that bloom in May. This is a tree that requires plenty of space for development.

Smokewood, another shrub that makes good individual specimens, grows about 12 feet high and blooms in July. This tree is distinctive in that the bloom is in flowering clusters. It is popular for planting on the edge of open vistas.

Judas Tree, the third specimen for individual plantings, grows to be 10 to 12 feet high and has a rose-pink blossom that blooms in April and May. This shrub is one that blooms before the leaves appear.

For hedges and screens, Japanese Barberry has proved to be one of the most popular, this shrub growing from three to four feet high. It is a hardy plant with heavy green foliage that produces scarlet berries in the autumn.

Hydrangea grows six to 10 feet high and has a white or rose colored flower that blooms from July to September. It is one of the good flowering shrubs that blooms late in the summer.

Privet grows to be about eight feet high and is considered one of the best shrubs for hedges. The plants should be set from eight to 10 inches apart in a staggering row.

Japan Quince grows to be from six to eight feet high and has a scarlet flower that blooms in May. When set from 15 to 18 inches apart, these plants make a dense bed that requires little pruning.

Siprea, which grows from six to eight feet high, Aborvitae, which grows from four to 12 feet high and Hawthorne, growing from six to ten feet high, are other shrubs that are popular for hedge and screen plantings.

Lancaster School Notes.

Defeat and Victory

Last Wednesday the High School base ball team met its first defeat of the season when the team of Crab Orchard High went home victorious. It seemed that this was an "off day" for our boys, but defeat was more than over balanced by the victory we gained over Harrodsburg two days later.

This game was at Harrodsburg, and we returned with a victory of 9 to 3. The next game will be at Springfield and it is hoped that the boys will add another victory to their list.

The Seniors have begun their practice on the Senior play and hope to make it a success.

Laugh and Live

"If a farmer has 4,000 bushels of wheat," said Miss Sanders, "and sells them at 60cts. a bu. what would he get?"

Lucien Thompson—"An automobile."

Mr. Williams—"Jack, what did you learn in school today?"

Jack—"I learned that the Arithmetic problems you worked for me last night were wrong."

Lucille—"When a woman is in love she acts like a fool."

Mittie—"Maybe, but when a man is in love it isn't altogether acting."

S. B. to his dad—"Dad, can you sign your name with your eyes shut?"

His dad—"Certainly."

S. B.—"Well then, shut your eyes and sign my report card."

Claude—"What would you say if I kissed you?"

Mittie—"I wouldn't be in a position to speak."

Roger—"If I kissed you, would you scream?"

Lucille—"Yes, but please don't mind that."

"How did you get your Algebra today?" Ota's mother asked him.

"You look so pleased I'm sure you did well."

"No, I didn't know my Algebra much, I couldn't remember my Arithmetic nor Science either very well."

His mother showed her disappointment but Ota had consolation in reserve.

"But that's no matter, mother," he said, "the boys admire me. They say I've got the biggest feet in the class."

NORA

By MILDRED WHITE

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

A great house, high on a terraced lawn. Windows gleaming in the sunshine upon either side of a pillared doorway, and upon the lowest step of the wide stone stair, a girl was sitting. She wore the white uniform of a house maid. But the blue eyes of the maid were dreamy, and her mop stick lay idly against her knees.

Then all at once her dark lashes forsook their dreaming, for a horseman rode, as in the olden tale, straight up the wide hedged driveway. This young man was a stranger. He alighted at sight of her, and came forward, cap in hand, as deferentially as though she were indeed mistress of the mansion.

"Will you tell me," he asked in pleasing tone, "if I may see Miss Eleanor Dean?" He presented his card. "Miss Eleanor Dean has gone away," she explained.

The young man sat down at her side.

"Well, then, that's over!" he remarked relievedly. "Now I'll rest before starting back."

"What is over?" the maid asked.

The man laughed.

"I was rudely speaking my thoughts aloud," he said. "I promised my Aunt to make this call, you see, and I have kept my promise, so that's all."

"Are you glad," the girl questioned, "to avoid seeing Miss Dean?" Most men seek that favor. All day—

She laughed amusedly. "I am kept busy refusing them, turning them off. In fact I am sure that is why Eleanor went away. She hates fortune hunters."

The young man regarded the girl's flushed, angry face with interest. "You sympathize with your employer," he said, "and you call Miss Dean Eleanor. Yet, you are her maid, perhaps?"

"I am," the girl corrected. "Miss Dean's companion. Also, I attend to her correspondence. I came back today to go over a lot of mail, and found that the servants had taken a general holiday, leaving the house vacant. So I was dusting the neglected rooms until I came out after cobwebs."

"Then," the girl sighed, "I sat down here, feeling sorry for poor Eleanor."

"Poor Eleanor!" exclaimed the man, amazed. "With a million in her own right, favored, also, I understand, with youth, beauty and charm. And you feel sorry for her?"

The girl nodded her head emphatically.

"No one really loves Eleanor," she declared, then smiled. "Unless it is me. They love her money and the things it buys for her. So she will never marry. She told me so before she flew away last night in her motor-car."

The girl sprang up and reached energetically toward the cobwebs. Whether she reached too high, or whether she stepped too far over the stone, Glen Hamilton could not tell, but his arm caught the maid as she swayed toward him; and as he held her for the space of a moment the dark lashes eyes gazed startled into his own, working strange mad havoc in his honest heart. Slowly he released her, while crimson flooded the girl's face.

"I must go in," she said; "there's the correspondence to attend to. One letter from your aunt," she said, "paying the way for your reception. I recall now, the name mentioned, Mr. Glen Hamilton. Yet you profess not to be a fortune hunter?"

"And I am not," the young man indignantly denied. "Rather than marry a woman for her money I'd—"

"What?" teased the girl.

"Marry her maid," the young man retorted. They laughed together.

"Seriously," added Glen Hamilton, "I will never marry, unless it be for love."

"And will you find love?" dared the girl.

"I am not quite sure," he hesitated, "but I think that I am on my right way to find it. Will you let me come tomorrow to take you for a drive, or would you prefer to visit me here, in the gardens?"

The girl considered.

"I shall first have to ask Mrs. Haskins the house matron," she answered primly.

"Mrs. Haskins acts as chaperon when I am here alone," a woman stepped from a car, as she spoke.

"Mrs. Haskins," began the girl, "this is Mr. Glen Hamilton. He hoped to meet Miss Dean, but as she has gone away, I would like to take her place entertaining him tomorrow afternoon, in the gardens."

The elderly woman smiled.

"I will send tea out to you there, Nora," she agreed.

The maid doffed her ruffled cap.

"I borrowed Mary's dusting outfit," she explained, "while I amused myself about the halls. Good afternoon, Mr. Hamilton—until tomorrow."

"Tomorrow," he said, and held close her hand. When he was gone, Eleanor Dean turned, the light of laughter upon her lovely face. "And I told him no lies," she informed the perplexed housekeeper, "for the world-weary Eleanor had gone away—oh, very far away. The girl who waited dreaming, was only a girl all unknown, awaiting her true prince—who came!"

Better Prices for Tobacco

Better prices for Burley Tobacco already have been paid on account of the organization of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association.

Men who remained outside the organization shared in the benefits accruing from the better prices due to the organization of the Association, there is mighty little doubt about that.

Your banker, your merchant, your professional men all favor the plan on which this Association was organized. The growers who have delivered their crops are pleased with the result. Ask any of them.

There are now more than 58,000 growers of Burley Tobacco who have come to the definite conclusion to drop the old wasteful dumping system of selling tobacco and to adopt the modern, sensible, business-like merchandising plan so successful where ever it has been given a fair trial.

The only people who are asking you to stay out of the Association are those who would profit by your staying out. YOU will not profit, but THEY will, and they know it.

Come join your neighbors in this movement and let's make it unanimous. For information and contract write to

In Memory

In memory of Oscar Huffman, who lost his life in Tulare, Calif., April 1st, 1922:

Dearest Oscar, how we loved you;
Tears of silence often flow;
Memory keeps you ever near us.
Tho you died three weeks ago.

Peaceful be thy sleep, dear Oscar,
It is sweet to breathe your name
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

After years of toil for others
And at last a bed of pain,
You are sleeping, best of friends,
And we long for you in vain.

The blow was hard the shock severe,
We little thought your end was Nigh.

We only know you passed away,
And could not even say good-bye.

If we had only seen you close your eyes,
And could have said good-bye;

But we know it was the best,
So we are satisfied.

—A Friend.
